Life—so they say

Is but a game and they let it slip away . . .

And all the secrets in the universe

Whisper in our ears, and all the years will come and go

And take us up always up . . .

So I wanna laugh while the laughin' is easy

I wanna cry if it makes it worthwhile

I may never pass this way again.

Volume 9

*I am ready, or so they tell me, to go out into the world—to encounter life's problems, its joys, disappointments, triumphs.
I react to this with mixed emotions.*

*I am no longer a child hiding behind a protective wall.
My childhood is behind me,
my youth is with me,
my maturity is yet to come.
I am proud to be considered an adult yet apprehensive, fearing failure.*

*My life has been a series of experiments.
I am beginning the most important one now.
My experience is limited,
but I must use what I have gained thus far.*

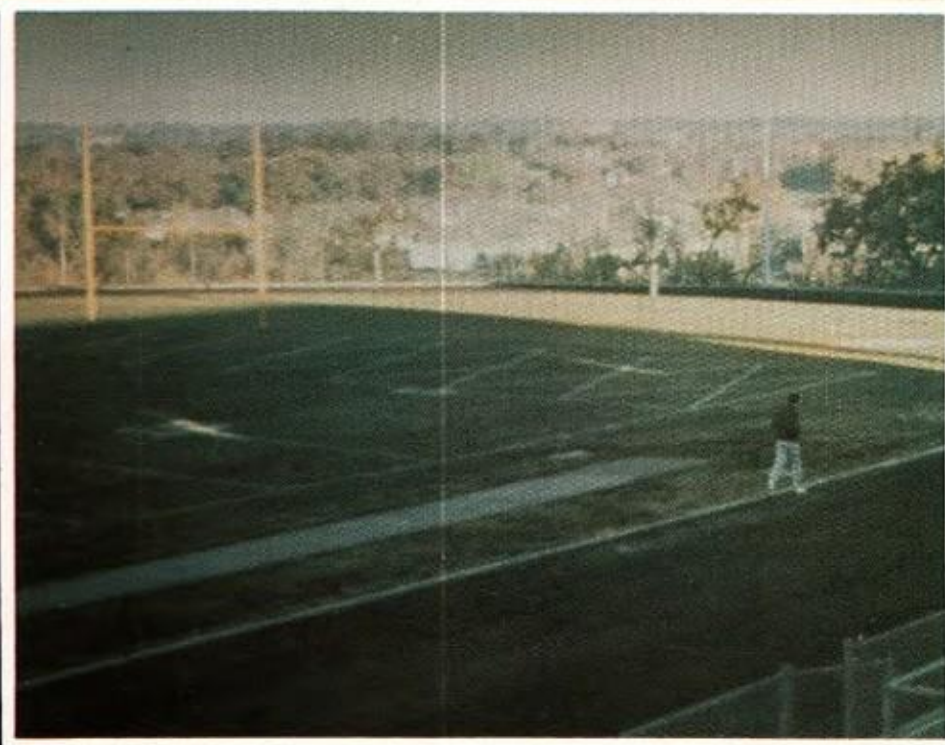

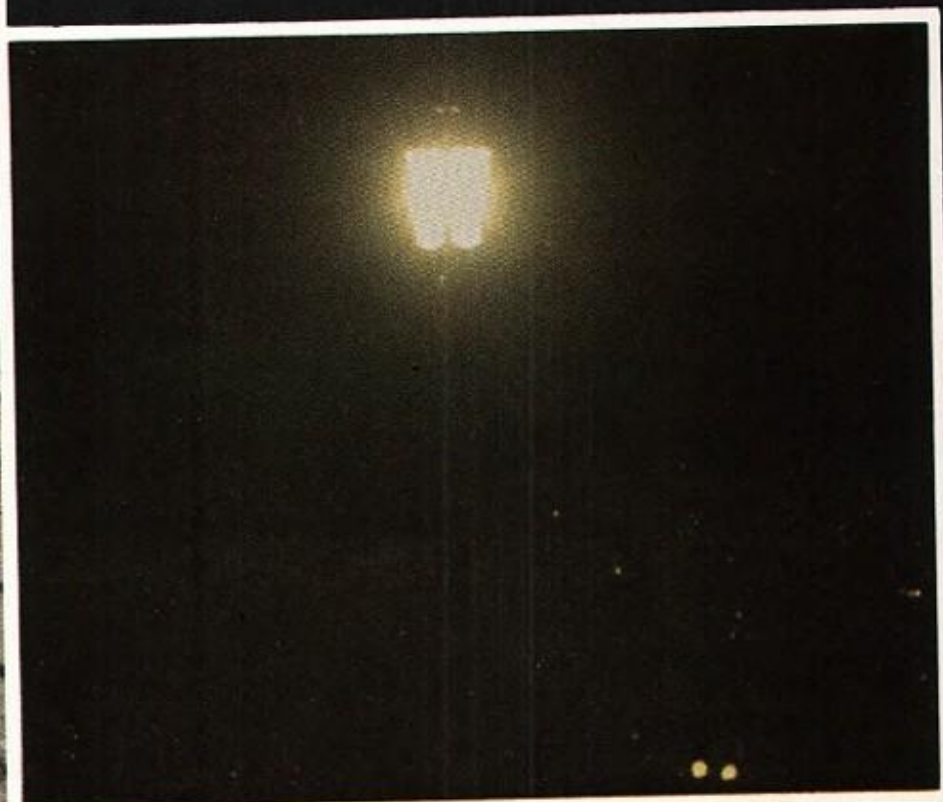

*Each day goes by—
I lose a little naivete
and gain a bit of insight to those things I will face on my own.*

*The friends I've made,
the things I see and do every day—
they make these years
memorable and unique.*

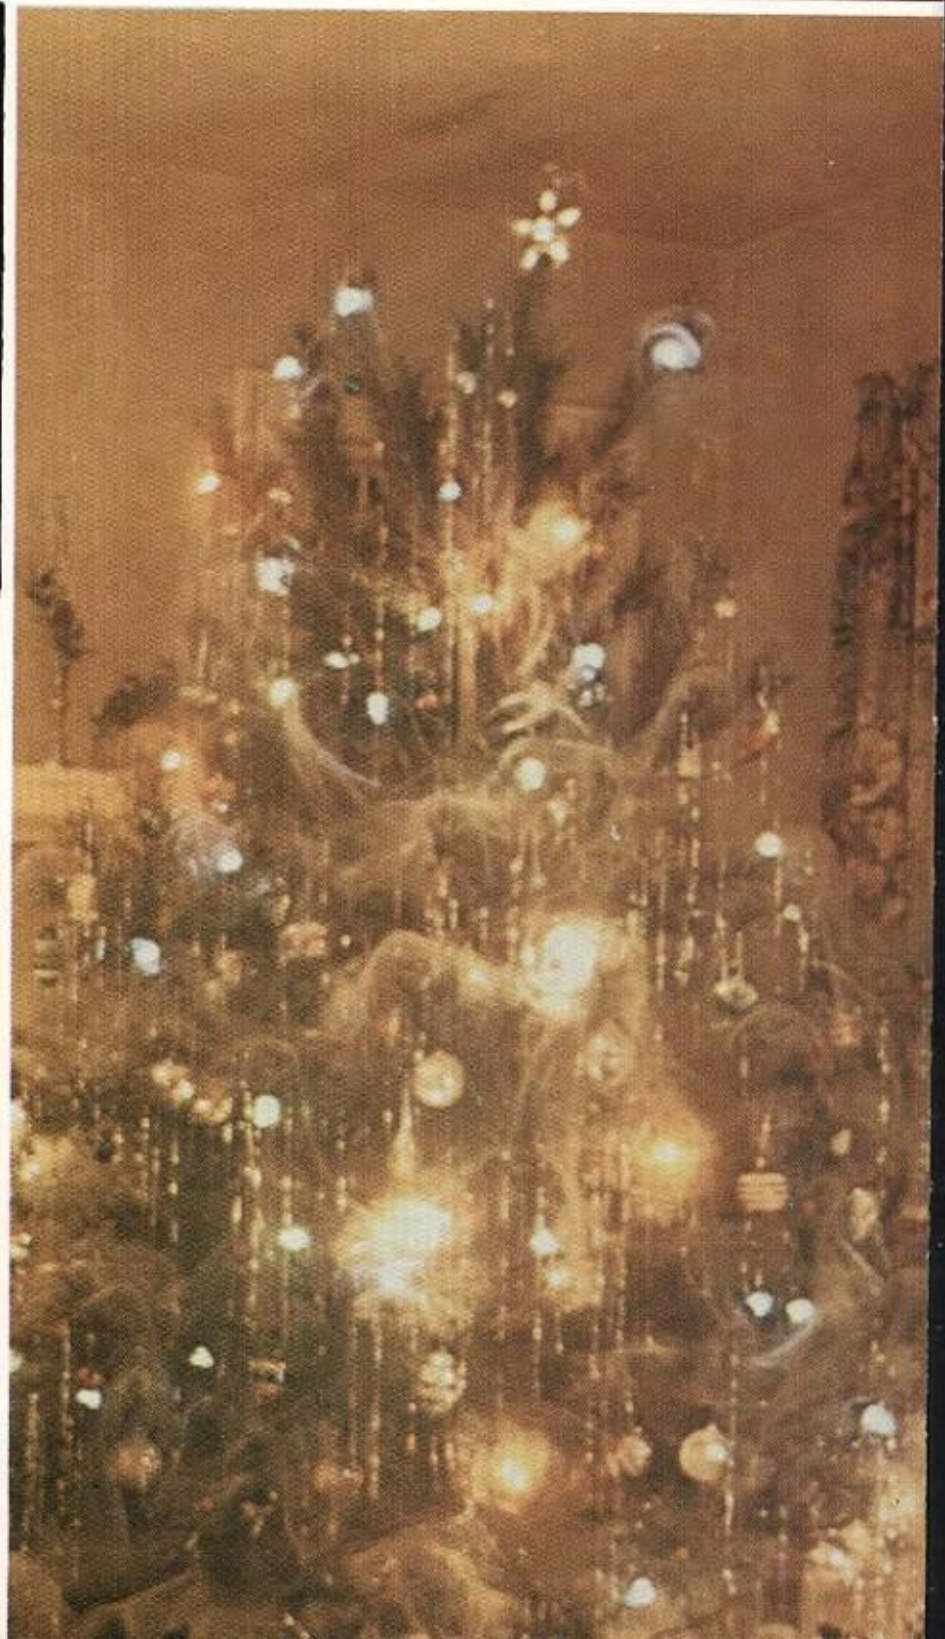

*Each day I learn something new.
And each day I try to fulfill the goals
that I have set for myself.
Without these,
life would have no purpose.*

*My new stage of life will take me to places I have never been, teach me things I have never known,
give me happiness that I could never imagine.*

And perhaps bring me sadness tinged with pain.

*But I must not forget
the people whom I leave behind:
my family, my friends,
and even my enemies.*

*For they have made the first formative years of my life
the most important that I will ever know.*

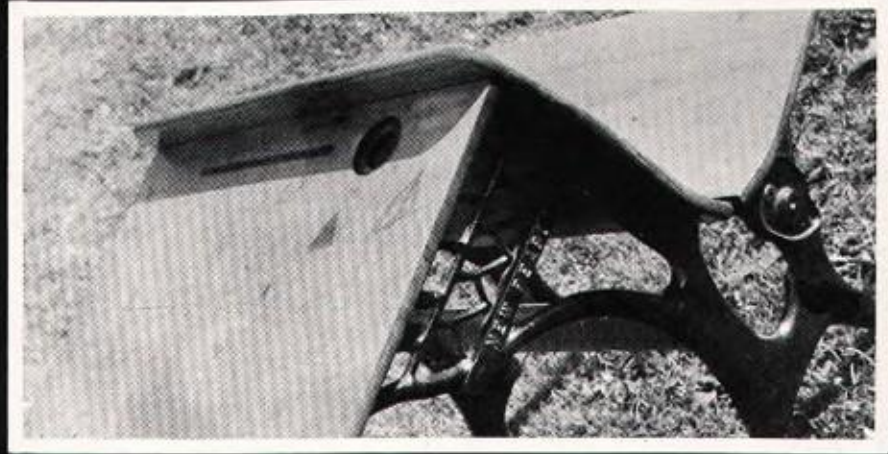

*We all come into this life
with equal opportunities and within these first years chances are lost, decisions are made,
and roads are chosen that separate me
from everyone else.*

*And only in these first years
can I make the decisions that are right for me.
The others make theirs.*

District implements new five point plan

"Campaign for Commitment," the new major philosophy of the Shawnee Mission School District, became a reality this year after more than a year of planning. Arzell Ball, superintendent, and David Schmidt, president of the Board of Education, implemented the five point plan. These points ranged from an equalization of school facilities throughout the district to an affirmative action program which accelerated efforts for the advancement of both female teachers and students.

The board also placed emphasis on a refinement of policies for the benefit of the student. By clarifying these policies and deleting ambiguities, the board made it easier for the student to understand and work within them.

New position for Edmonds

Charles E. Edmonds, previously an American history teacher, changed his position from last year and served as a new member of South's administration. As Dean of Students his primary responsibilities included student relations and working with non-sport activities such as StuCo. His appointment allowed the administration to achieve their goals by making the time available for students to converse with the administration on a more informal basis. They encouraged students to bring in their social problems in addition to school-related problems.

Library obtains new checkpoint system

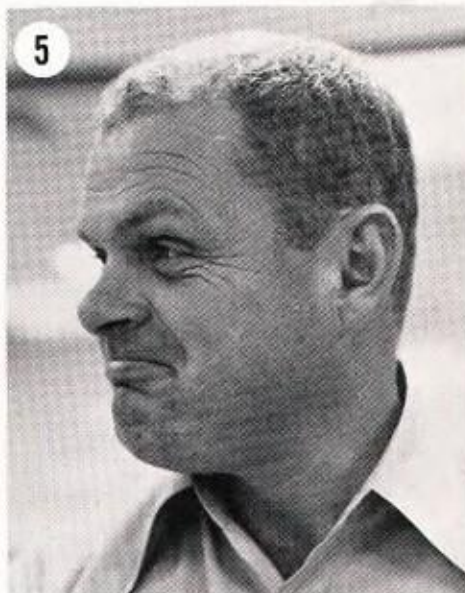

The library participated in a pilot program for the Shawnee Mission District, the checkpoint system. A walk-through detector assured maintenance of material and allowed better services to be offered. One of the new services included the Art Resource Center operating as a reference section of the library.

Emphasis on group work and guidance increased in the counseling center with the enlarged enrollment. Zela Holt and Phil Larson became involved on the Learning Center committee and with special services. In addition, Phil Larson also headed the Show Me South Club and Zela Holt worked with aptitude testing. Gerald Colwell continued as coordinator for the counselors. Ann Gresham led the cadet teachers while James McCoy contributed his services to StuCo and the exchange students.

Although busy with an increased enrollment, the secretaries kept the office running smoothly. Carol Sullivan, computer clerk, and Jackie Voorees, attendance clerk, joined the staff.

Cafeteria combats rising food prices

Challenged with ever increasing food prices and an increased enrollment, South's food service worked diligently to serve 750-900 students daily. Students received well balanced, nutritious lunches each day. The twenty-three cafeteria workers strove to make the money received from lunch ticket sales and government reimbursement go further than ever before to fight inflation.

Shawnee Mission South's custodians had a larger job than ever picking up after South's more than 2500 students and teachers. The seventeen member staff worked hard before and after school, on weekends, and on holidays to keep South neat, clean and in good repair.

English students help to structure classes

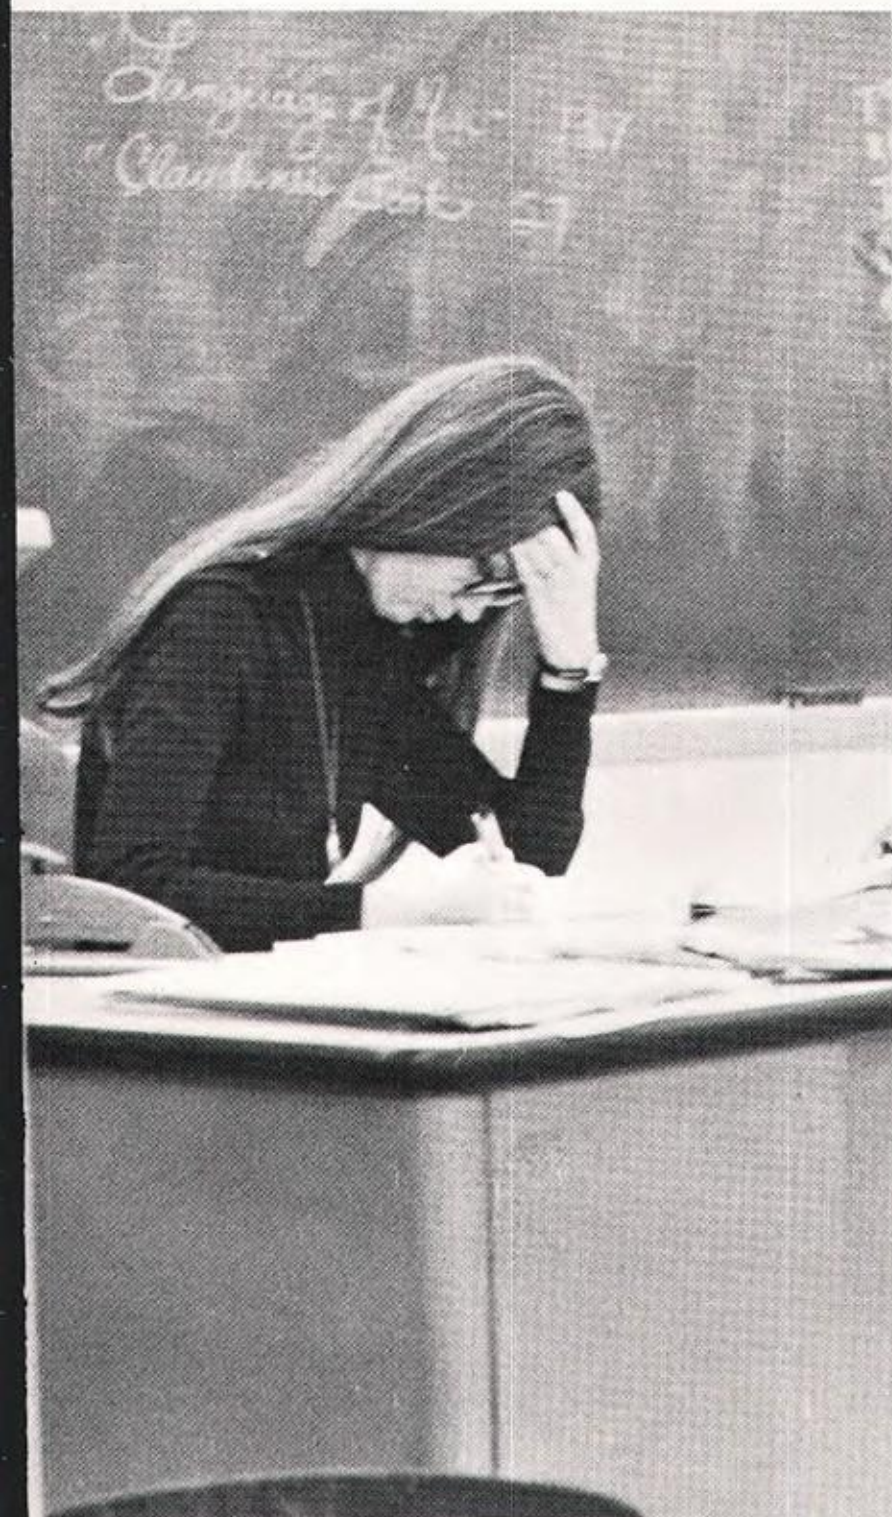

Using results from surveys given to last year's sophomores and juniors, their respective teachers enriched the content of the quarterly mini-courses. Sophomore and junior English teachers also utilized a pretest and posttest system to discover the student's knowledge of basic English. From the results of the pretests given to the students the teachers planned a curriculum suited to the needs of the student.

This year the enrollment in the sophomore English classes greatly exceeded that of previous years. The large enrollment caused a somewhat massive shift in the teaching assignments in the language arts department. Three teachers, Gerald Ashen, Martha Pine, and Janet Rosecranes taught sophomore English for the first time this year. Due to the change in the Sophomore teaching staff, the junior English staff underwent similar changes. Karen Benson taught junior English as opposed to teaching sophomore English during the previous year.

Senior English classes enroll in new electives

The Senior English classes had electives for the second semester for the first time ever. Dorothy Holland's classes questioned oral and written communication in trials while doing courtroom work. Emphasis placed on critical thinking in speech and written form aided the Advanced Placement English classes in their work with inductive and deductive reasoning and formal logic.

Continuing with the open classroom concept the reading classes concentrated on improving their skills in vocabulary and reading. Filmstrips of cartoons depicting words and the corresponding tape recording aided the students in their efforts for better vocabulary skills.

The drama classes created masks this year. A new class, Theatre Ensemble, met this year. Sandy Gresham, the debate teacher, stressed the idea that, "debate is the art of mastering one's mental faculties in conjunction with speaking ability in an effort to communicate one's ideas through the integrity of competition."

NJROTC enrollment reaches new high

Beginning its seventh year at South, NJROTC, headed by Commander Robert Haggerton, had a record enrollment of 124 students including 31 girls. To enhance the patriotic aspect of football and basketball pre-game ceremonies, NJROTC provided color guards, which included one new all girl unit. Other activities included trips to San Diego and the Great Lakes Naval Base, intramural football between Shawnee Mission Schools, and the NJROTC Navy Ball held in February.

Continuing their efforts to instruct juniors in American history, teachers used a series of films showing different facets of the United States' history. Mr. John Forbes and Mr. Larry Gould, assisted by a number of student teachers, used the conceptually new team-teaching method.

Social Science dept. offers class variety

Shawnee Mission South's social science department offered a large variety of teaching methods and classes to the students. The electives this year included World History, Psychology, Anthropology, Sociology and International Relations. International Relations, taught by Verlyn Schmidt, offered the students a study of United States Foreign Policy, in both the historical and contemporary setting. Reading and independent study became open programs to students. Traditional lecture method, individualized study, contract instruction, inquiry, small groups, simulation, extensive research, and library work gave the student a wide variety of educational programs to learn from. Teachers also planned next year's American Studies class.

New teacher joins math department

Raymond Dennis, a transfer from Hillcrest Junior High, joined the math department teaching staff this year. He taught the Computer Science classes, which used the computer terminal here at South. Howard Mischlich took the position of head of the math department. Many of the other teachers became traveling teachers. Due to a lack of rooms these math teachers shared hourly vacant rooms with other teachers from the foreign language department. Also during the year, Clyde Paul's trigonometry classes worked on special mathematical projects.

The Shawnee Mission South math students scored well above the national level on the ACT test. The student's scores exceeded the national norm of 18.3 by 3.3. An exceedingly large number of students enrolled in the math classes, especially in the honors math classes this year. The math classes offered at Shawnee Mission South can be taken by any student wanting to enroll.

Beehives, prairie dogs added to SMESL

A natural increase in the population of the prairie dog colony and an increased number of new beehives added to the natural surroundings in the Shawnee Mission Environmental Science Laboratory. Tours for grade school students and special groups included these new sights. Designing and conducting their own tours, Field Tech. students led sightseers through the various SMESL areas.

The Science Resource Center located in the library increased its effectiveness by adding an abundance of new materials. The center contained most of the library's science related materials including the new books and film loops. Each hour different science teachers staffed the center to assist students with any science problems they might have.

Two of South's science teachers, Jerry Murray and Dean Jernigan, who both teach Biology I and Field Tech. undertook the task of writing a book on research techniques and environmental studies. Work on the book started in 1970 and should be completed in the summer of 1974.

Above right: During one of the many biology experiments, Mike Calwell looks as if he belongs in the kitchen. The science department, deemed as one of the best in the state, receives awards annually. Throughout the year, biology students use the SMESL to carry out the research needed for the experiments. In addition to labs, students do various projects.

1. Lynn Hall-Biology I.
2. Jerry Murray-Biology I; SMESL Co-director.
3. Duane Marine-Chemistry; Asst. Swimming Coach, Boys Intramural Director.
4. Richard Dawson-Advanced Biology, Biology I, Science and Survival; SMESL co-director.

Teachers gain learning skills

Increasing their education and teaching skills, three of the foreign language teachers participated in various events during the summer. Sherril Hixon worked in an Avila College workshop. June Farson journeyed to France and Betty Barlow went to Pueblo, Mexico. The exchange students also provided some foreign language classes the opportunities for personal contact with people who speak the same language. June Farson's French classes caroled at a local shopping center during the holidays and Mary Alice Daniels prepared a dinner in December for her German class. The Latin class sponsored the marriage booth at the AFS carnival while Barbara Siebel's advanced Spanish classes held cultural dinners.

Fewer cars prove no obstacle for drivers

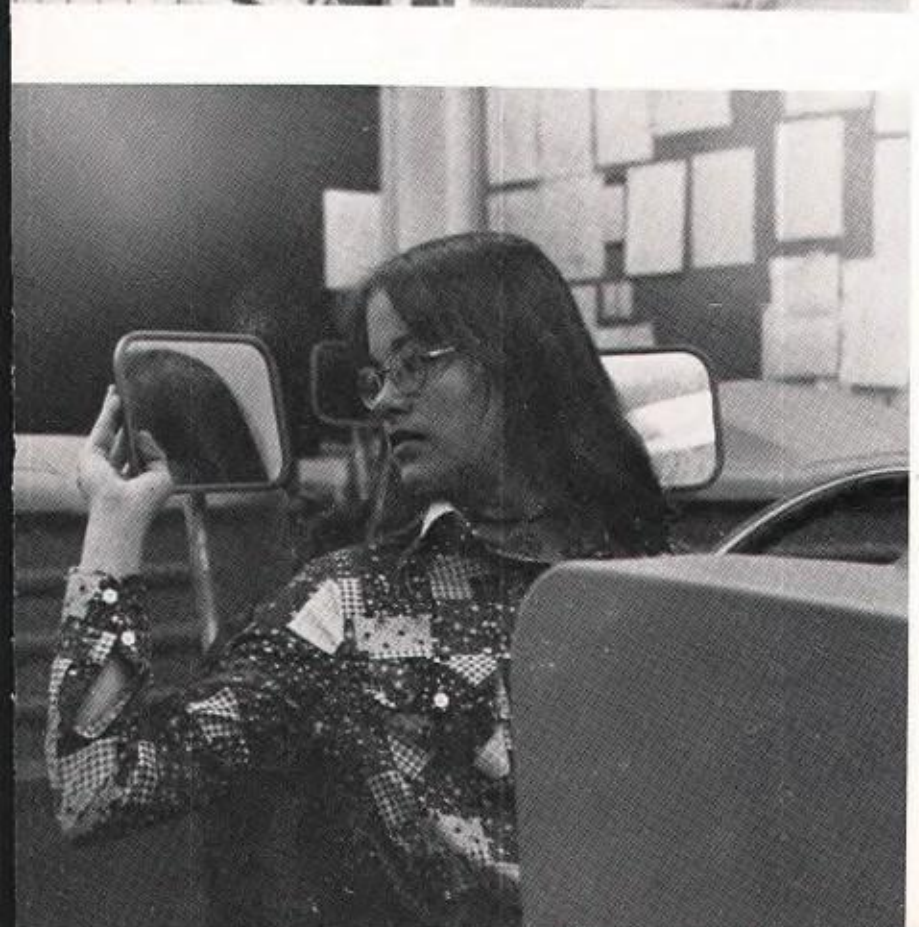

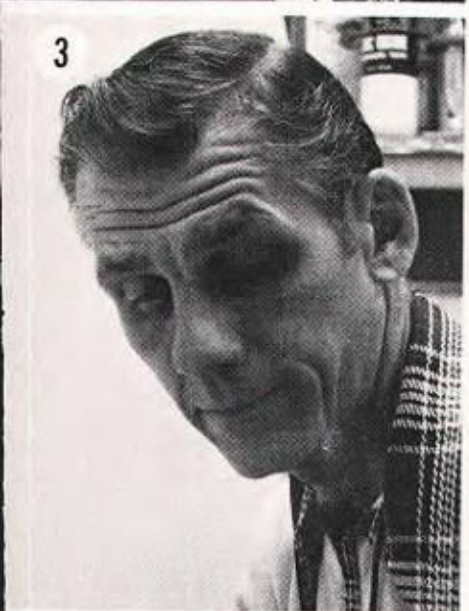

Although the Driver's Education classes started the year with only two cars instead of four, they still produced over 600 students as safe, licensed drivers. The Driver's Ed teachers continued last year's innovation by dividing the classes into smaller groups, providing more personal attention for each student. Some of the teachers also used the library for term paper research. Another project utilized articles from newspapers and magazines. A discussion held once a month updated the textbook material. The Kansas State Driver's Handbook also contained updated material.

With fitness stressed throughout the department, the physical education classes developed better activities for the course. Girls participated in events including circuit training, inter-class fitness relays and fitness testing. A new health and safety class taught by Sharon Wiber began with individual and team sports also being offered. A military approach to the boys' classes began this year, complete with commands and formations.

Boys show interest in Home Ec. department

Gradually becoming interested in Shawnee Mission South's home economics department, boys enrolled in Foods I classes. This year's capacity classes had the benefit of new cooking equipment including a fondue pot, a crockpot, and a micro-wave oven.

In the sewing section of the department, a new course, Family and Clothing, taught by Anne Holdren, explained the aspects of making quilts, placemats, curtains and other household items as well as sewing clothes for the entire family.

Other classes in the home economics department included Home Decoration, Designer Fashions, Child Development, Bachelor Survival, Exploring Childhood, Creative Cookery, Clothing I and Family and Home.

Two new courses in the music department, Jazz Lab Band I and II, explored the basic and advanced techniques of jazz while Junior Ensemble and Sophomore Girls Ensemble expanded the vocal music section of the department.

Resource Center aids students in art study

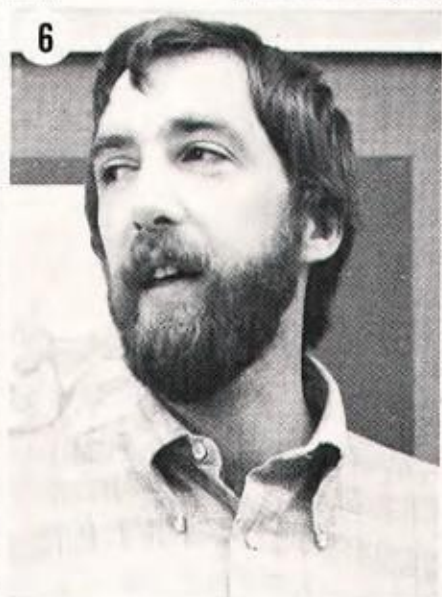

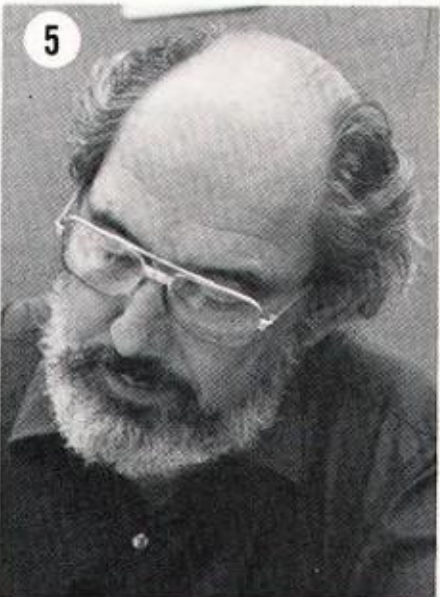

At the beginning of the year the art department constructed an Art Resource Center to aid the students in their study of art. The art department also updated the cinema processes classes by adding a dark room. Seeing a need for the addition of another drawing and design class due to the increased enrollment the art department added another section of this class. The abundant enrollment caused the art department to expand in classroom usage. What was once the auto-tech room became the jewelry, ceramics, print making and sculpture classrooms.

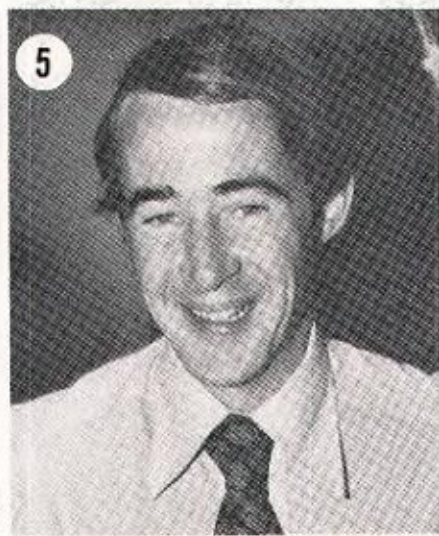

To exhibit student art work, the art department scheduled many art shows during the year. A final show occurred in May, recognizing the students for their artistic abilities.

The addition of a data processing class enlarged the business department staff. Patti Palmer, a transfer from Trailridge Jr. High, joined the staff. Coinciding with a growing staff and curriculum, the enrollment increased by 296 students over last year.

SPORTS

Despite inexperience, Raiders finish winners

After beginning the season by tying Southwest, the Raider varsity football team ended its season with a 5-3-1 record. The team had very little varsity game experience with only seven returning lettermen. Quarterback responsibilities shifted from week to week between Keith Clay and Randy Heath, seniors, and Tom Rystrom, junior.

When the Raiders upset S.M. West in the Homecoming game by the score of 21-0, they again obtained the chance to compete for the Regional title. In the following game, S.M. East scored in the final minute to defeat the Raiders 6-0, and also thwarted their state championship campaign.

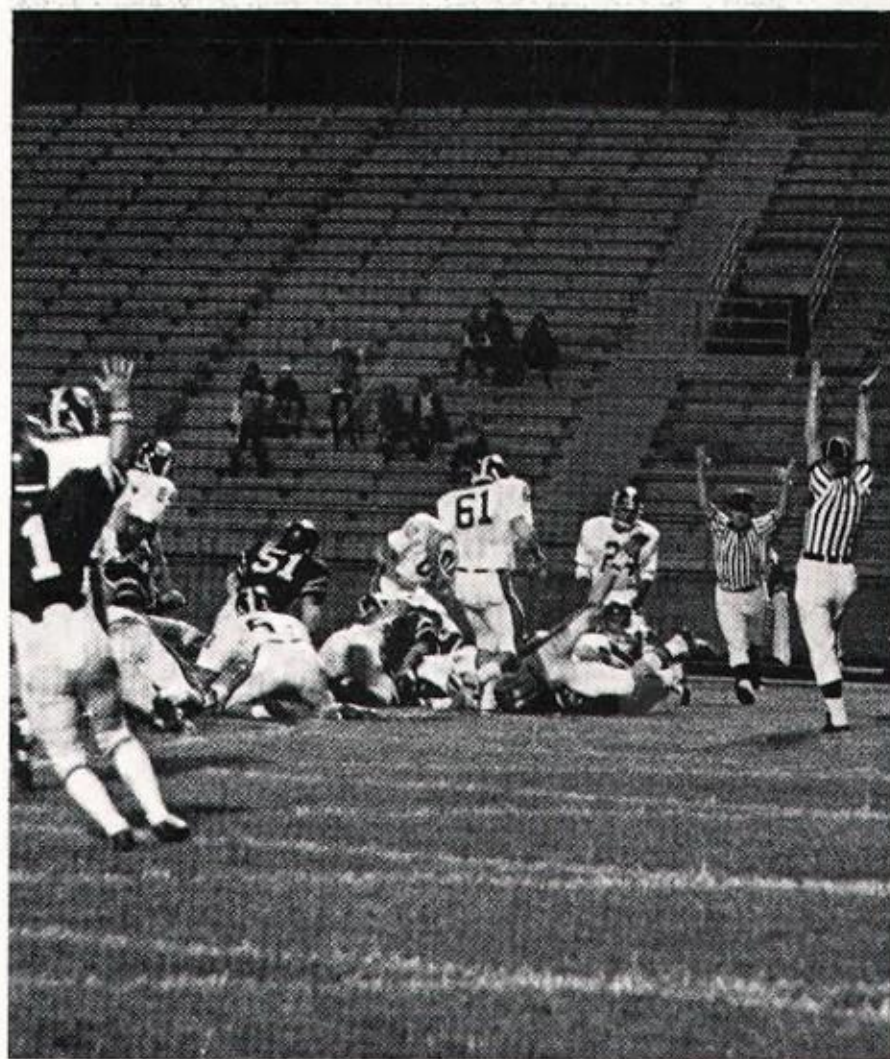

During the off-season, the Raiders kept busy in conditioning programs to stay in shape for the coming season.

Last game of season mars South JV record

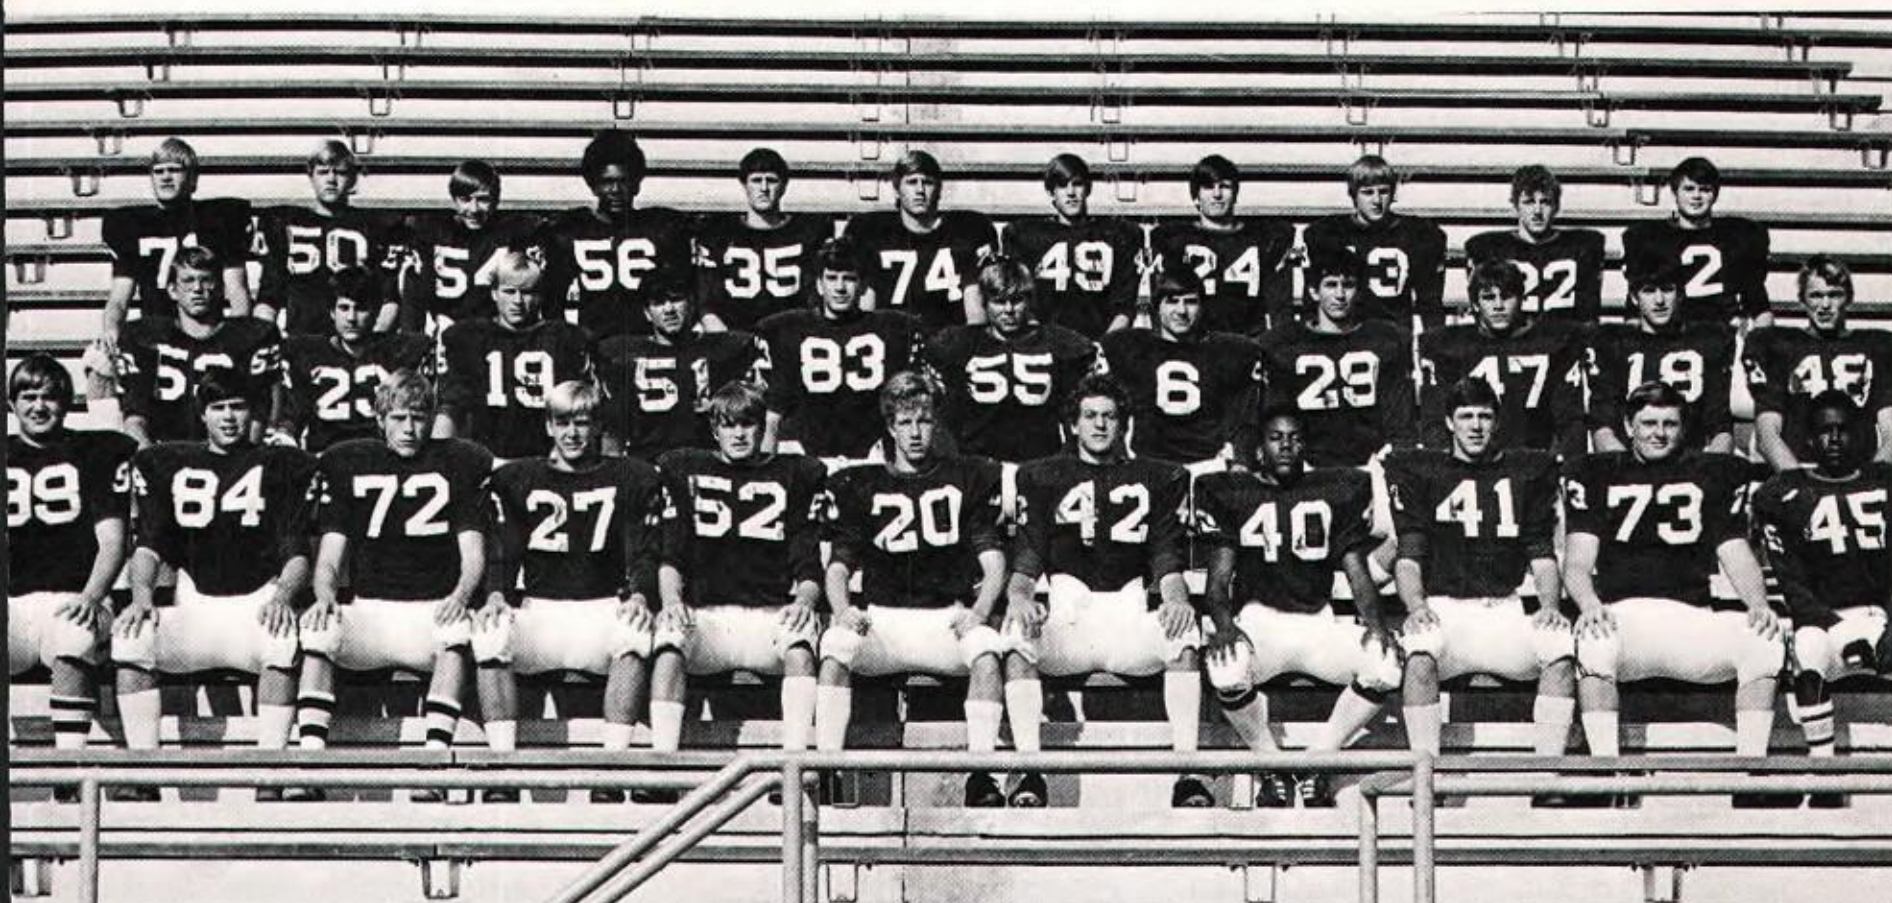

The Raider junior varsity football team wrapped up the season with a record of six wins and one loss. Some of the more memorable games included a win against Shawnee Mission West in overtime. In a game against Shawnee Mission North, Tom Rystrom highlighted the victory with four touchdowns. A close game with Lawrence showed an outstanding defensive effort by linebacker Jay Spradley, defensive end Tom Wright, defensive back Mike Morse, and sophomore defensive tackle Mike Saunders. Jeff Kallmeyer scored the winning point with a quarterback sneak. The Topeka game featured the scoring talent of Tom Rystrom and Mark Anderson. Other talent included Ken Clay who added many points with his kicking prowess.

Whites defeat East to capture first place

Topping the season off with a 23-0 win over Shawnee Mission East, the sophomore white football team finished the season in first place with an 8-0 record. Under the direction of head coach Bill Spencer and line coach Brian Alger the team's offense scored a total of 210 points for a 30-point average per game. Tailback Greg Krokstron led the team offensively by rushing a total of 760 yards. The team's strong defensive unit, led by Jim Hunter and Chuck Vanassa, shut out all opposing teams offensively by holding them completely scoreless. To celebrate the undefeated season, Coach Spencer gave a post-season swimming party for the members of the white team.

The sophomore green team, coached by Dick Booth and Tim Burkindine, completed the season with an even record of four wins and four losses. Top green team players included Mark Sutherland, Earl MacIntosh, and Dennis August.

Varsity X-C holds up under competition

With only three returning lettermen, South harriers held up well under tough Sunflower League competition. Though losing their first meet in three years, the team continued in their strong cross country tradition at South.

The team highlighted the season for Coach Verlyn Schmidt when they won the SM East Invitational for the third consecutive year and gave Schmidt his 200th win as a coach.

Led by Jamie McPhee, Reed Eichner, and Kevin Kenny, the team concluded the season by placing third in the State meet. The team carried on the eight-year tradition of never placing below third in State competition.

JV harriers maintain first rate record

The Junior Varsity and C squads of the cross country team maintained their high standard of achievement this year. The JV squad completed the season with only one loss against a tough competitor, Topeka West. The C team compiled a perfect record.

In preparation for a long season, the Raider harriers attended strenuous practices each day and often on Saturdays. An average practice consisted of about eight miles of running, endurance exercises and weight-lifting.

Tennis team ties for first place at State

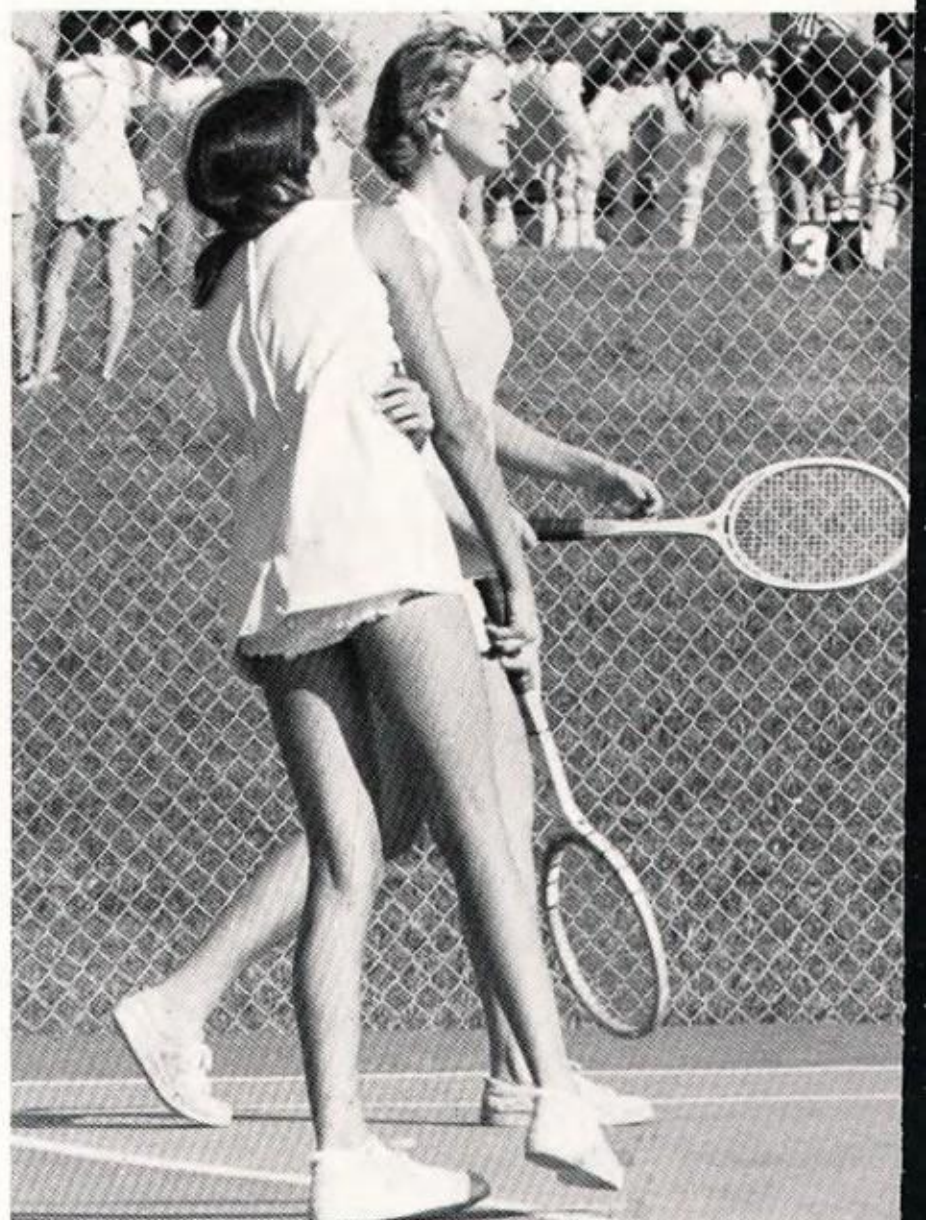

While attending the State tennis meet, South tied with SM East for first place. Five players from the tennis team attended the state meet held in Emporia. Sue Clark and Bobbie O'Brian received the first place award for State Doubles Champions. The Girls Tennis team consisted of twenty-two players which showed an abundance of strength with ten returning lettermen. Thirteen players on the tennis team lettered this year. Karen Hense, captain, and Ann Ward, manager, added unity and spirit to the tennis team. The team, coached by Jim Davidson and Duane Gabrielson, received new warm up sweat suits and new team dresses this year. For the first time, the team had a mascot, Baby Raider, a brown teddy bear.

Girls capture state title

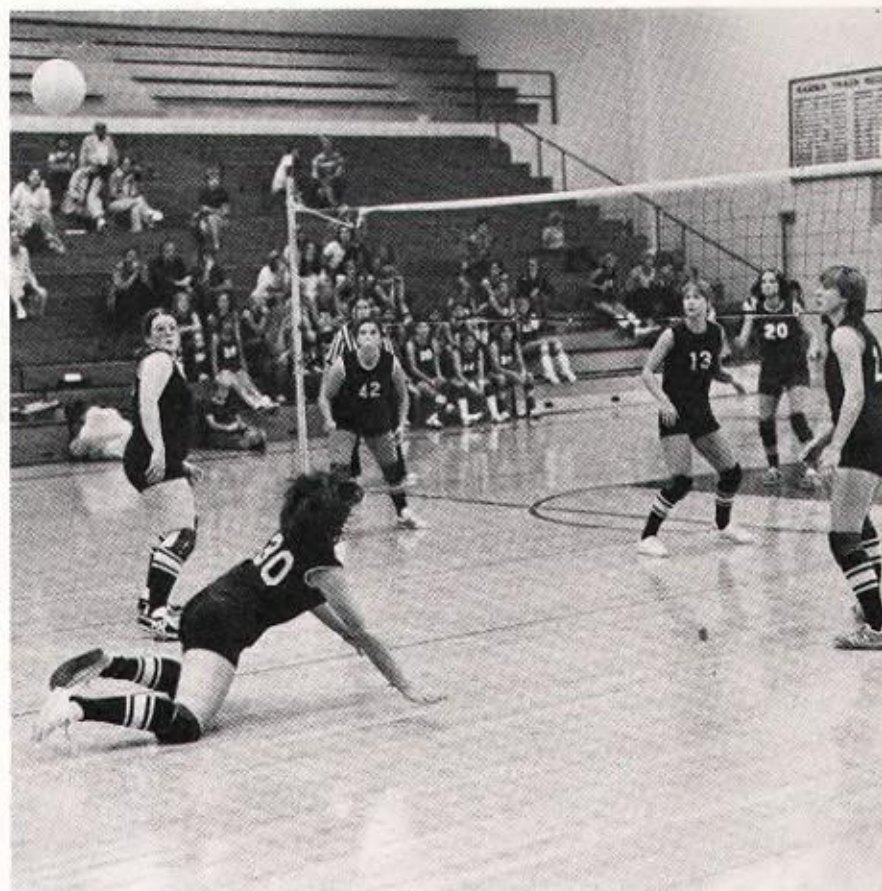

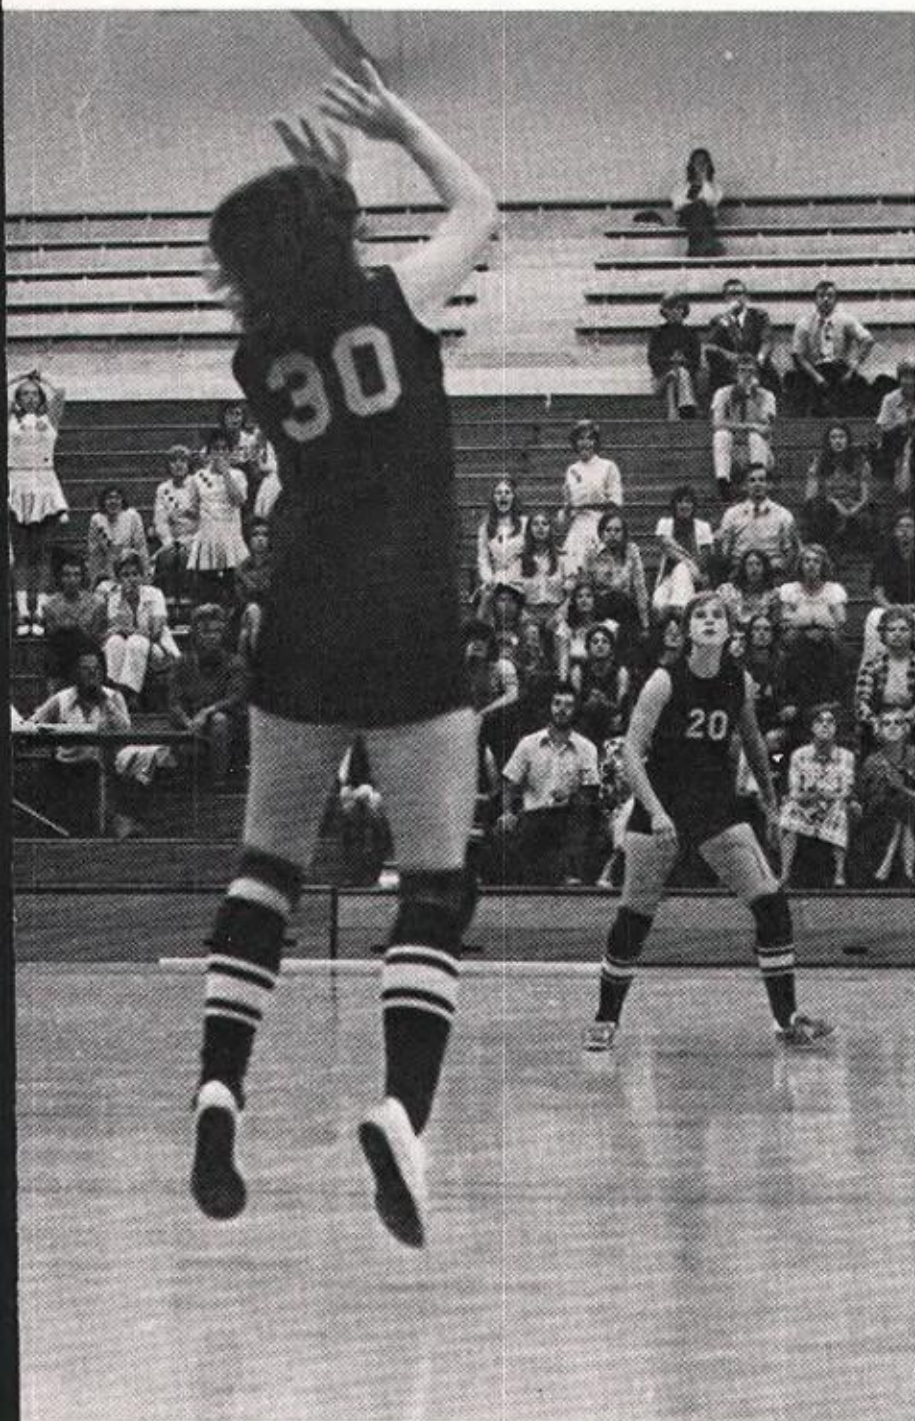

Defeating Lawrence in the finals of the state tournament, the South Raiders won their first 5A-4A Girls Volleyball title. Coach Cindy Smith led the team to the title believing that the biggest factor in winning the state championship consisted of the team playing as a unit, not as individuals. Coach Smith put much emphasis on conditioning which included running the track and stadium stairs. The well disciplined team finished their season with a record of 16-1.

Varsity basketball down East twice

The Shawnee Mission South Varsity basketball team conquered SM East, South's archrival, twice, by the score of 39-29 and 58-45. Steve Willman, South's star center, and Pete Steinwart greatly contributed to South victories. The starting line-up usually included four seniors and one junior player, Dave Ring. The big setback of the season occurred when South fell to SM North, 38-35. This year's coaching staff included head coach Dudley Giese and assistant coaches Ron Millard, Bill McDonald, and Cordell Cunningham. Low scores characterized South's basketball season. The Raiders played aggressively all season to reach regional and state competition early in March.

JV displays winning spirit

Giving up many hours in order to perfect their playing skills, the Junior Varsity Basketball team demonstrated their hustle, spirit, and desire. The team emphasized defensive basketball. Offensively, Vince Burke and Bill Murphy led the team. Many members of the JV squad achieved their goal by often contributing their skills to the Varsity team. Each week, different players received the starting nod.

South's Gold team wins first 7 of 8

Winning the first seven of eight games, the Sophomore Gold Basketball team, coached by Cordell Cunningham, possessed the balanced scoring attack needed for a successful season. The squad showed tremendous offensive effort, while their defense held opponents to low scoring games. The Gold team averaged 44.7 points a game, while holding five teams under the 40 point mark. The team worked well together, combining speed and height with quickness and aggressiveness in their playing ability.

South's Sophomore Green Basketball team, coached by Bill McDonald, got off to a slow start, losing their opening game to Shawnee Mission Northwest at Northwest. The team later came back with a number of wins displaying qualities of strong team spirit and drive.

SMS wrestlers shut out Wyandotte 63-0

For the first time in several years the SMS Wrestling Team shut out an opposing team. The South Varsity Wrestlers defeated the Wyandotte Varsity grapplers by a score of 63-0. Every member of the Varsity squad emerged victorious over their opponent. Coach Guy Malone, with assistant coaches Bruce Roach and Forest Hummel, guided the grapplers through long hours of practice every night after school during the wrestling season. The wrestling season began on December 7, 1974 and ended with the Grand State Tournament on February 22, 1975. The returning lettermen included Tom Trenda, Paul Ellis, Kory Rowberry, Pat Cirese, Jeff Krusen, Chris Stupas, and Joe Zeman.

Early swim season begins in January

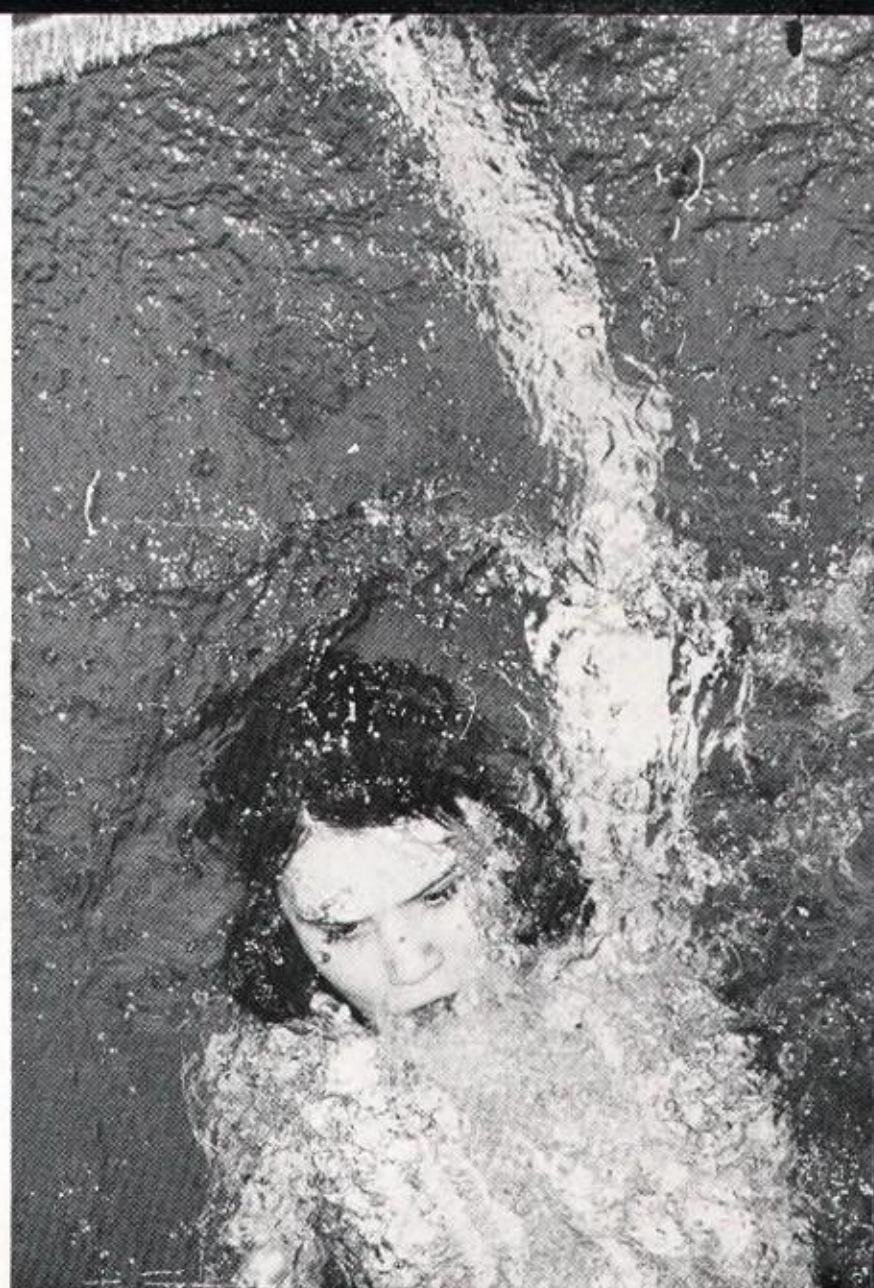

Clad in green and gold swimsuits, the Raider girls swim team dove into their season in late January. Beginning their schedule of meets with a clash against their rival, East, the girls opened the season with a disappointing two-point loss. The loss ended a 14 meet, 2 year winning streak. For the first time, the 50-member team participated in a state swim meet, never before held in Kansas for girls. In keeping with traditions established in past years, the girls made dresses to be worn on days of meets. The girls also took turns hosting breakfasts for the team on meet days.

Practices, drills strengthen swimmers

Strenuous practices before and after school and new practice drills strengthened the Shawnee Mission South boys swim team. At the beginning of the swimming season every applicant participated in time trials. The applicants who received the top eighteen times became the SMS varsity swim team. The remaining swimmers comprised the junior varsity swim team. Coached by Mike Callwell and Duane Marine this year, the varsity swim team returned five lettermen including Dave Gall and Tim McGowan, both third year lettermen. South's expectations in diving competition over the previous year reached outstanding levels, with Pat Brettel ranked number one in the nation and junior, Kurt Anselmi.

Girl gymnasts welcome new head coach

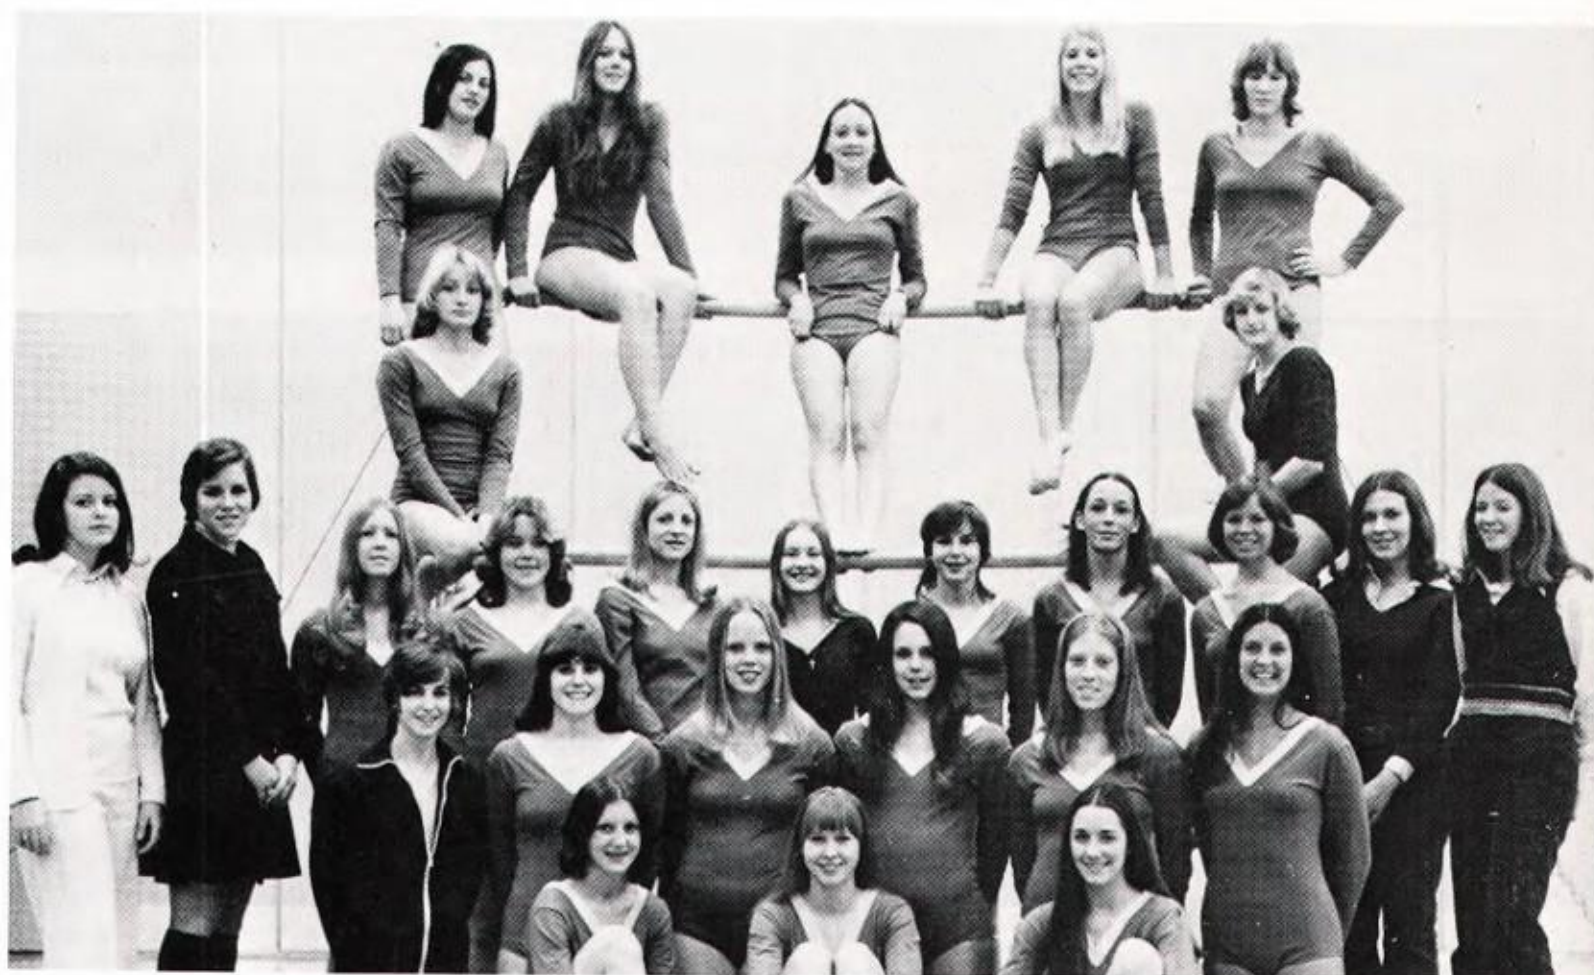

South's Girls Gymnastics team welcomed a new coach this year, Billie Rice. Billie Rice brought a new approach and outlook into the gymnastics team by introducing the Physical Fitness Club to condition the team. The physical fitness training consisted of running and elementary tumbling. The lack of space created problems during the practices, with both the boys and girls teams utilizing the gymnastics equipment and the gym. Practice for the team began at 2:00 and ended between 4:30 and 5:00, followed by fitness training. Becky Watkins and Sandie Balot served as captain and co-captain respectively during the gymnastics season.

School record holders return

With five out of seven events boasting returning school record holders, the boys gymnastics team formed impressive records. Hal Kurz, South's all-around man, starred on floor exercise, long horse vaulting, the horizontal bar and the still rings. Other top performers included Terry Oliver on long horse vaulting and Bob Moore performing on the pommel horse. Bruce Levy displayed his skill on the horizontal bar, and Ron Altman exhibited his on the still rings.

Intramurals: opportunity

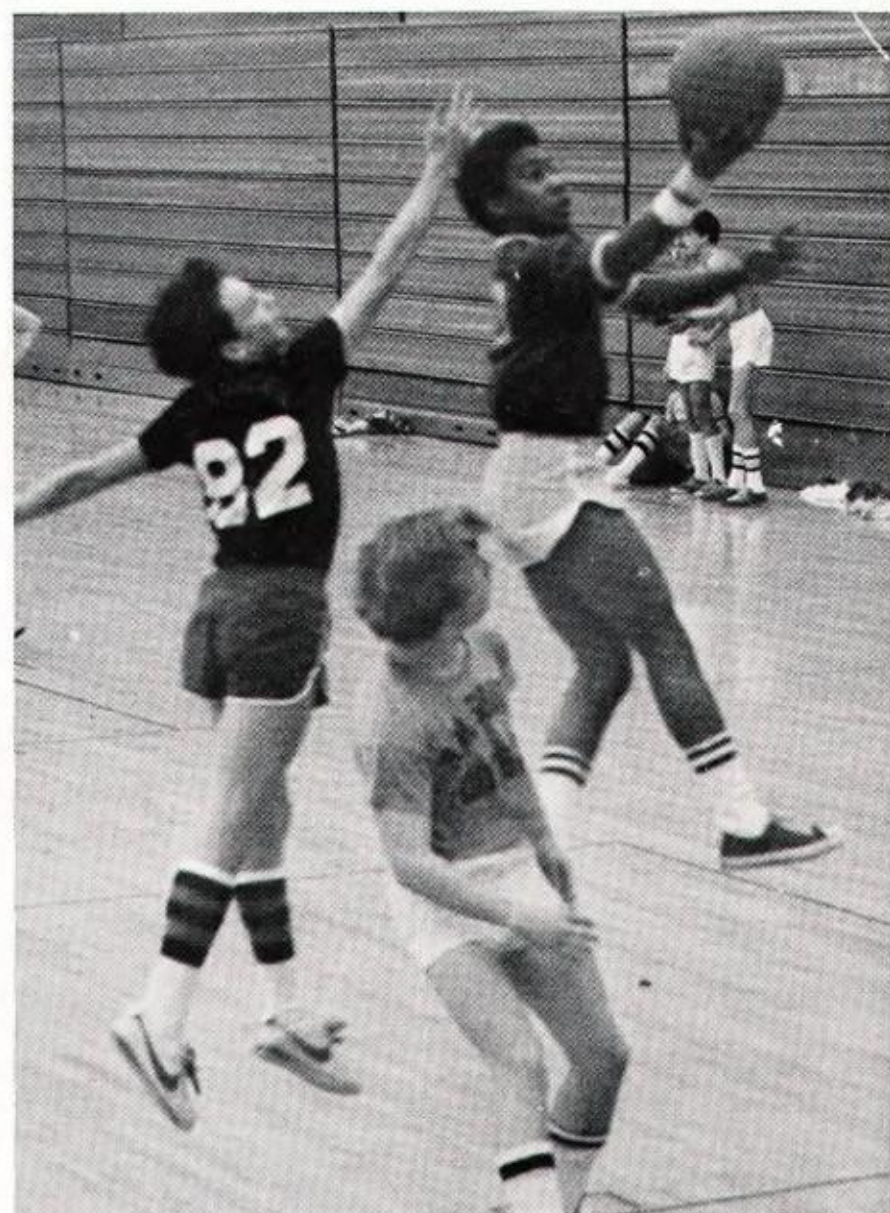

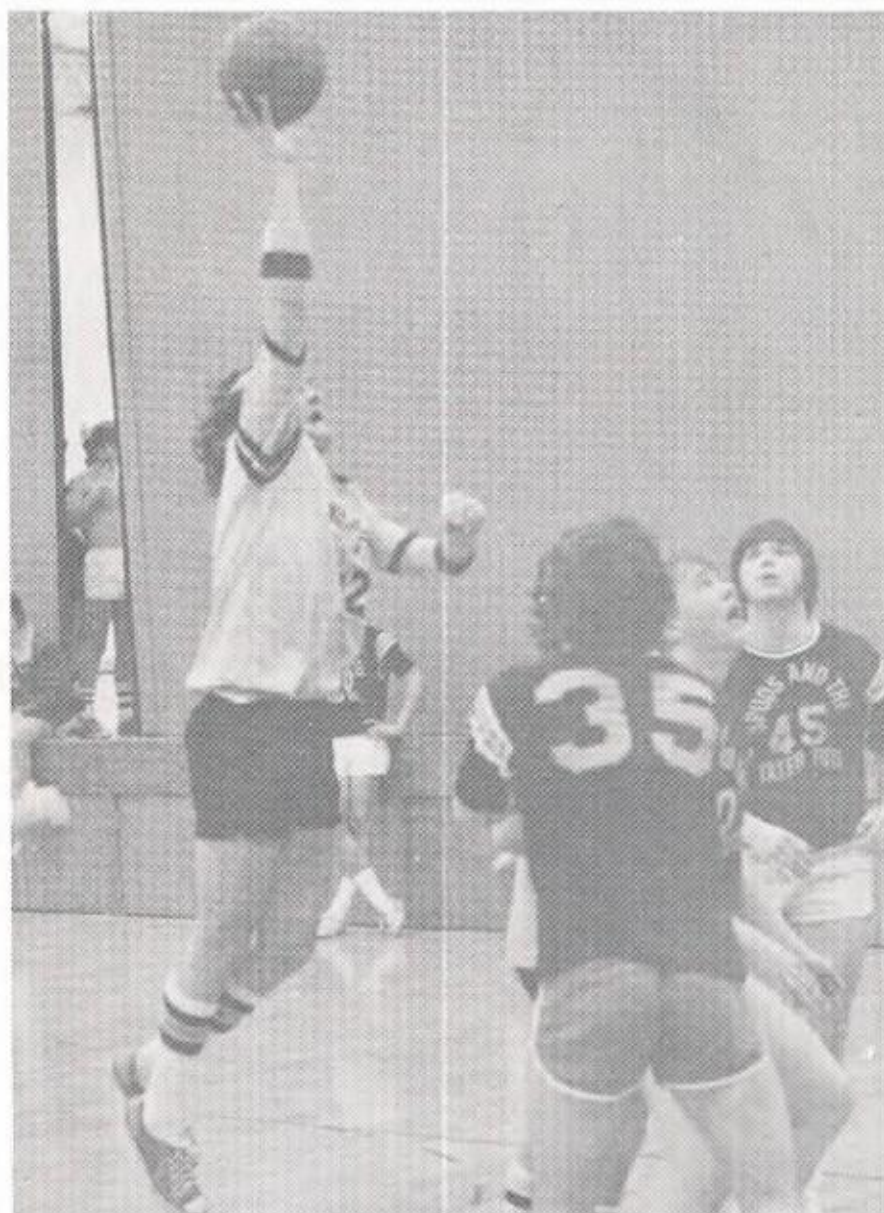

In order to provide the opportunity for boys to be involved in sports without extra-curricular competition, the boys intramural program took form once again. Twenty-seven teams including two faculty teams participated in the league. Duane Marine served as director.

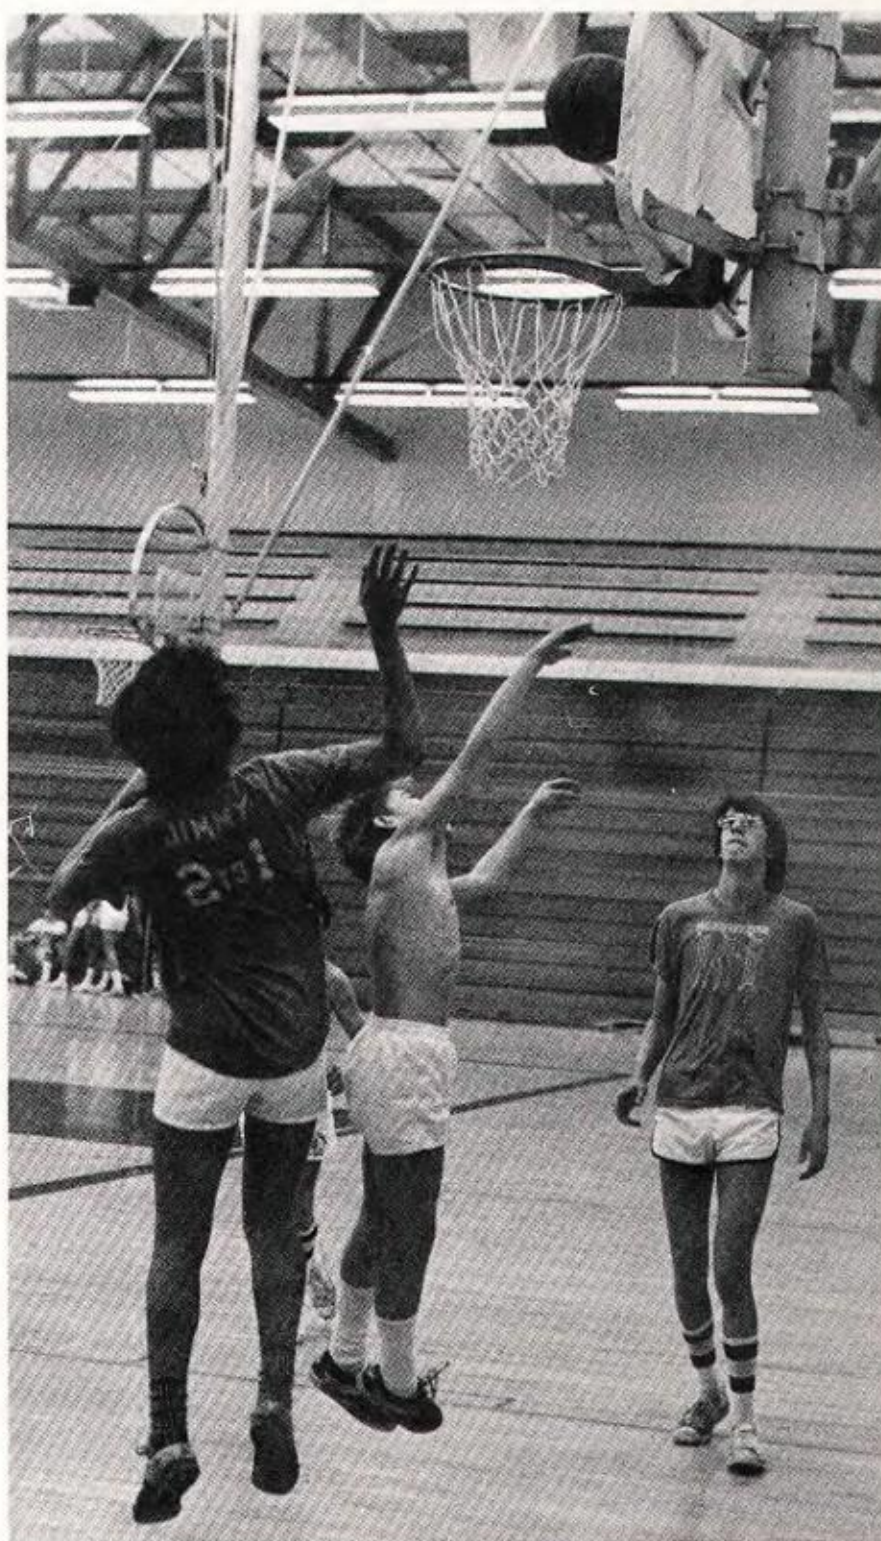

The girls also played in a volleyball intramural league. Games involving the eight teams took place on Wednesdays. To insure fairness, each team could have only two varsity players.

Fund raising activities supply band uniforms

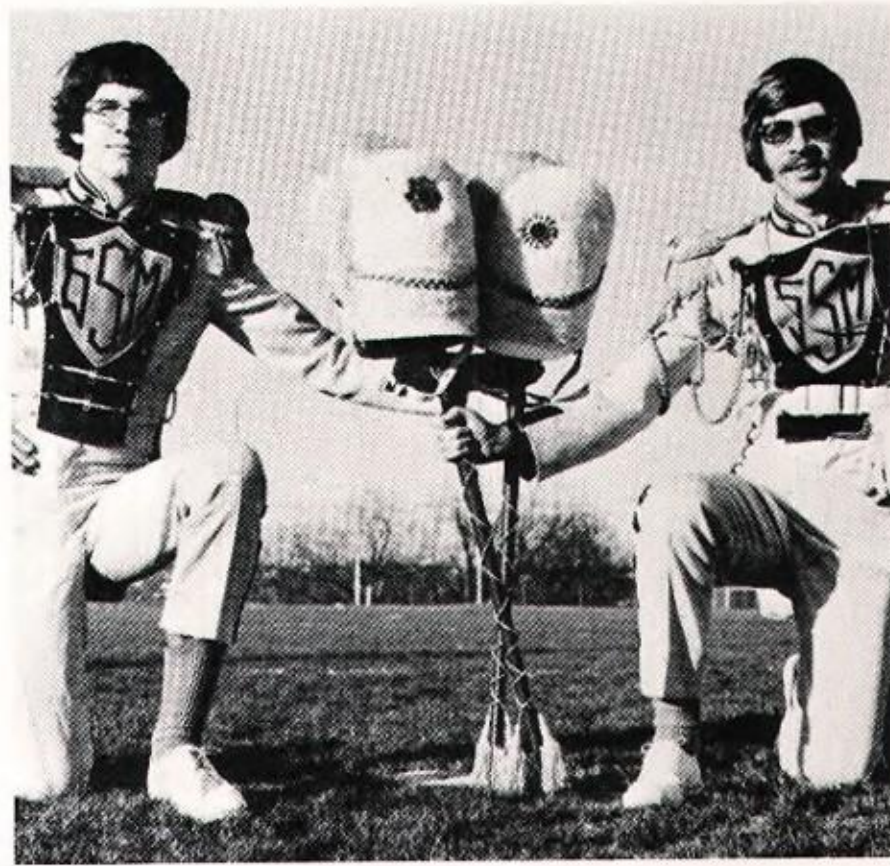

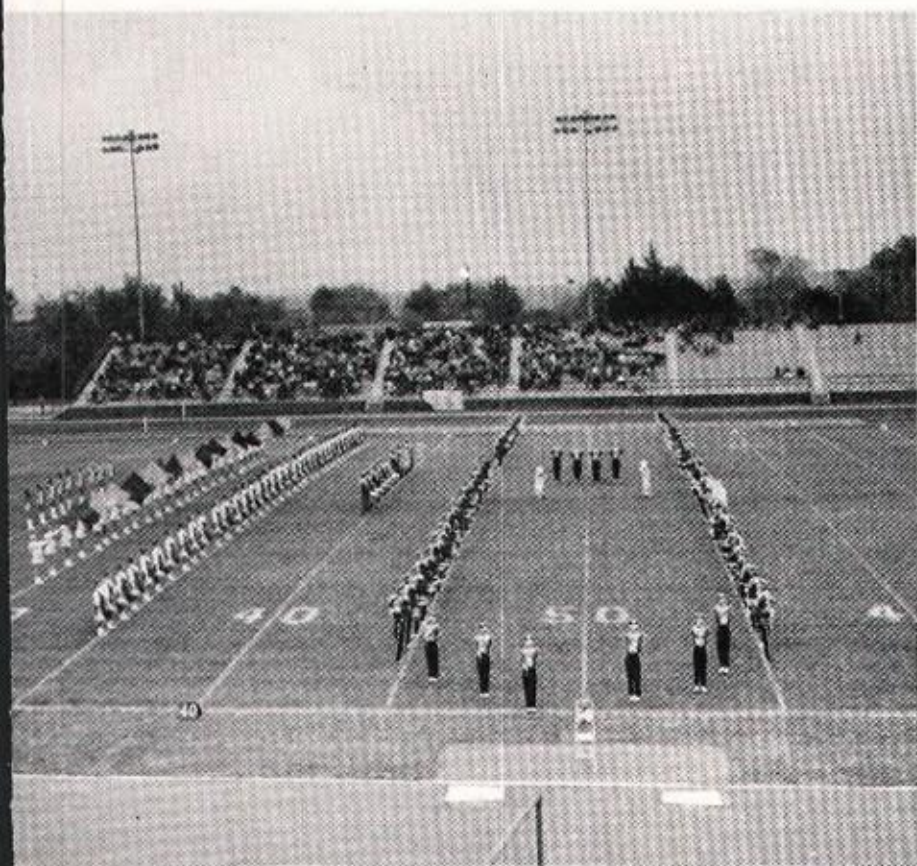

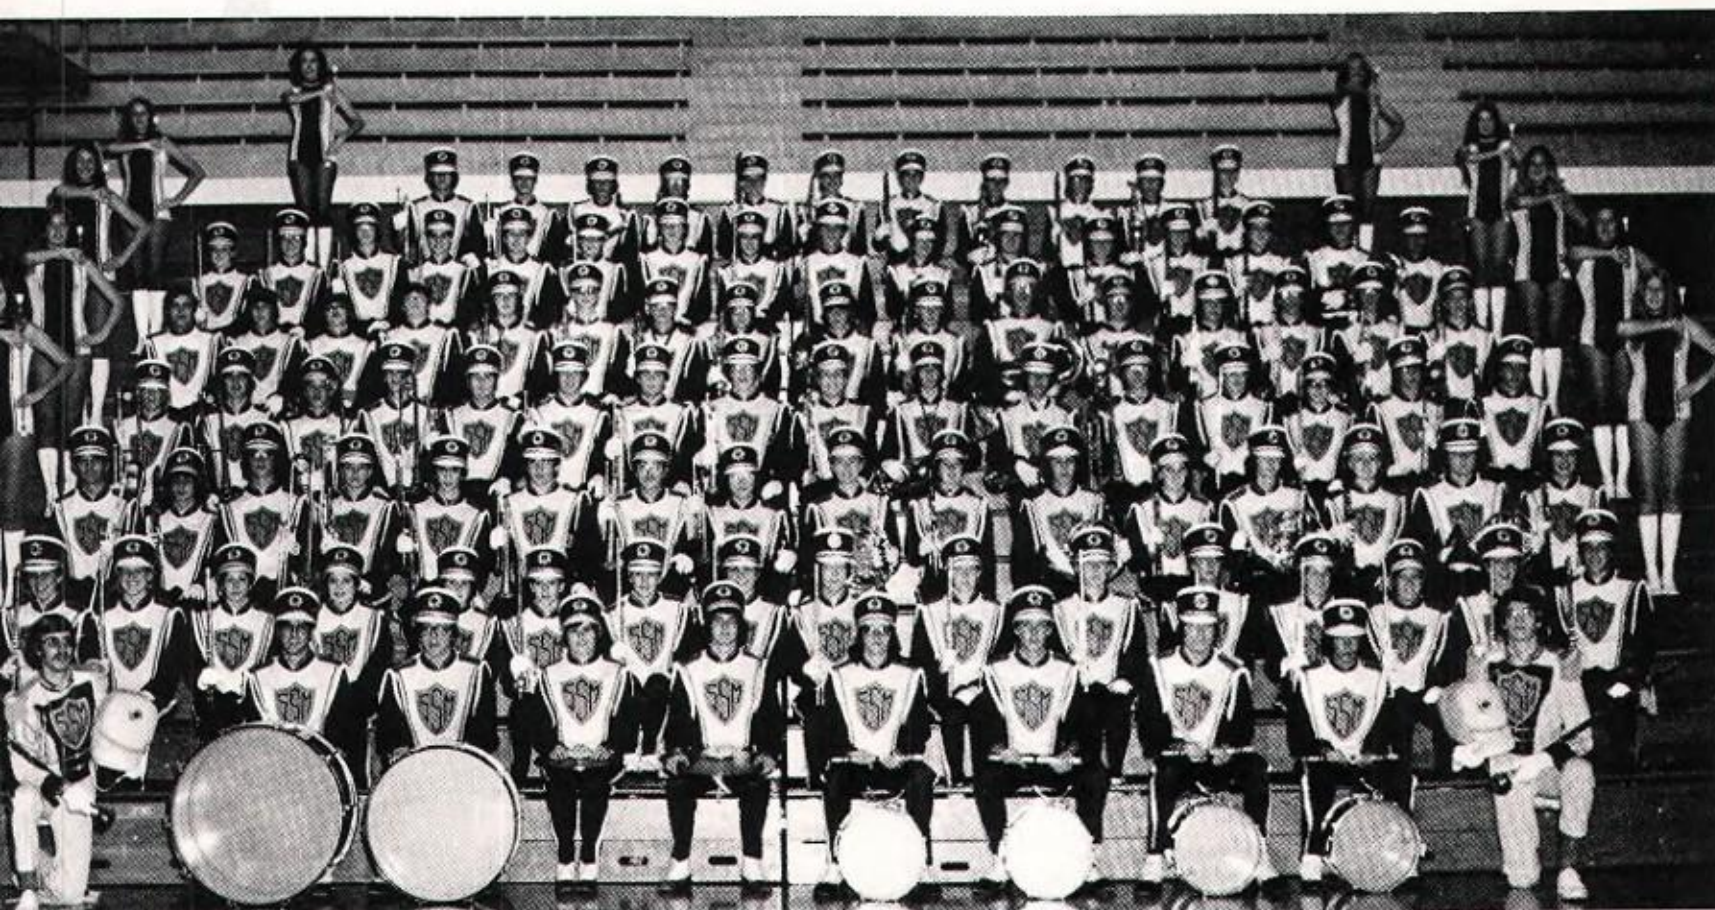

Long hours of endurance and practice characterized the effort put forth by students of the Shawnee Mission South Marching Band. To raise money for new uniforms, new instruments, music, and band equipment, the Raider Band held two paper drives and sold candles. Paul Vanhorn, Bob Charlesworth, Susan Kraft, Patti Willis, and Harold Steinhardt served as the officers of the Rompin' Stompin' Raider Band. Chuck Rau and Kevin Milbourn, the drum majors, conducted the marching band throughout the football season. The band practiced every morning from 7:30 to 9:30 during football season for their performances at South's home football games. Jim Cochran, the director of the band, held auditions for the Raider Marching band at the end of the school year. Any sophomore, junior, or incoming freshman could audition. The South marching band also practiced during the summer, which began in August. The students practiced from 9:00 to 11:00 in the morning and from 1:00 to 5:00 in the afternoon.

Pep Band improves skills

Early morning practices aided Pep Band attempts at improved musical talent and skills. Pep Band provided back-up support for the cheerleaders and entertainment for the students attending football and basketball games, along with various pep rallies. On Fridays the members wore green and gold uniforms providing visual unity.

The Taco Batallion, the drum ensemble started last year by John "Taco" Watts, employed various percussion instruments to achieve their distinctive sound. The ensemble played for the drill team and flag team during basketball season, along with performances at other schools. A show in conjunction with StuCo also appeared in the Batallion's agenda.

Raiderettes, twirlers, mascot promote spirit

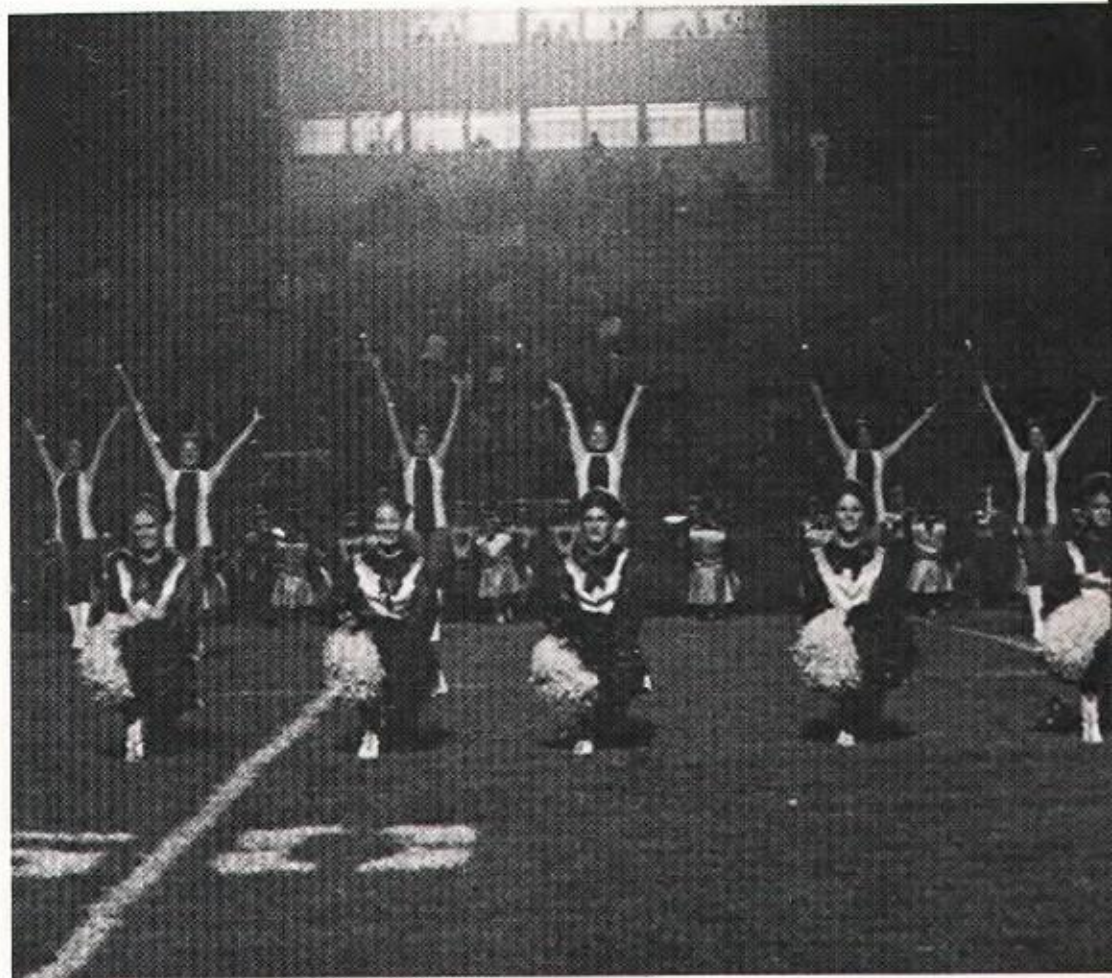

Opening South's basketball games and Pep Club assemblies, the Raiderettes promoted and upheld South spirit. Patti Beard sponsored the Raiderettes which consisted of six members. Tryouts for Raiderettes, held in April, included marching, twirling the guns, and an interview. The Raiderettes practiced every morning during first hour. Karla Keeney and Linda Frenkel served as captain and co-captain respectively.

Also upholding South's spirit, Ann Hickok, the Raider mascot, rode Lancashire Lad, her horse, up and down the track when the Raider football team scored. Don Donaldson sponsored the Raider mascot.

Practice started early in the summer for South's twirlers, who also performed at football games, basketball games, parades, and festivals. During the school year, they practiced before school, during first hour, and after school. Melanie Parkerson served as captain while June Farson sponsored the ten-member group. They held tryouts for new members in April.

Pep Club Exec adds junior vice-president

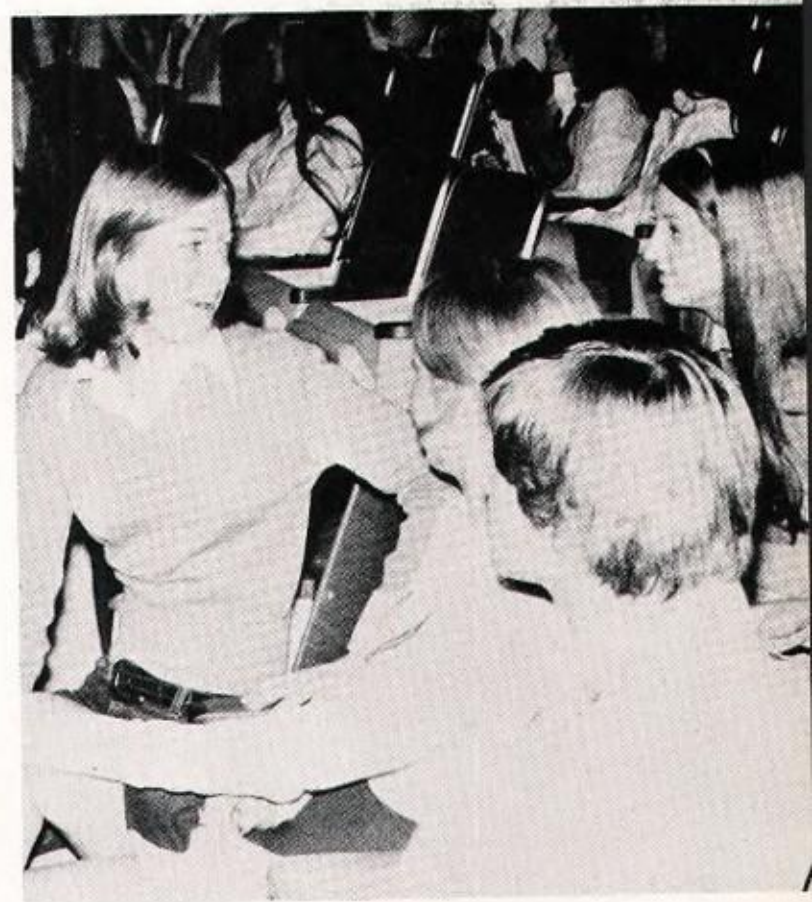

After their elections in the spring of 1974, the '74-'75 pep club officers worked throughout the summer to create new and innovative ideas for the school year. The officers welcomed Barb Linville as the junior vice-president, a newly created office made to aid the senior vice-president in her Homecoming and Sweetheart plans. The officers also organized Friday pep assemblies to raise spirit for South's many athletic teams.

Over five hundred girls from all grade levels joined and obtained the required number of points to maintain their membership. A spirit stick was awarded to the girl with the most spirit at basketball games.

Spirit, smiles and pride displayed by Southettes

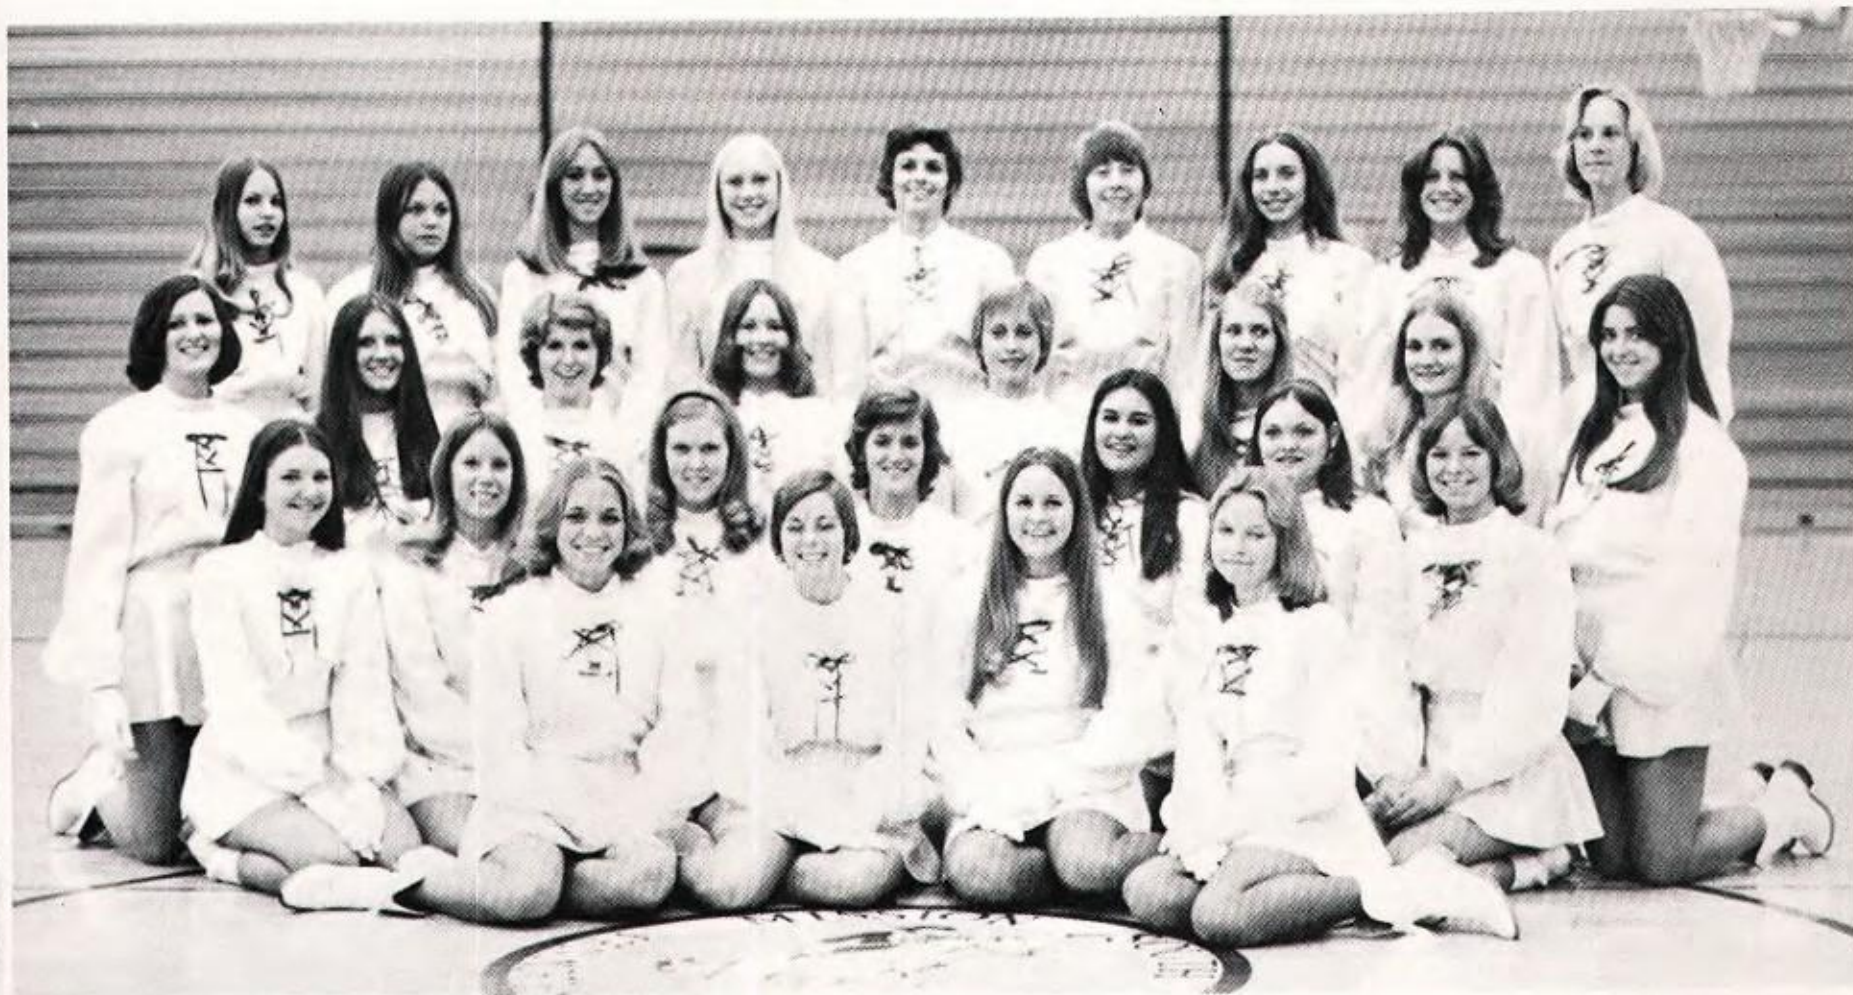

Spirit, smiles, and pride displayed at South's home football and basketball games by the SMS Flag team livened up the half-time performances. Long hours of hard practice put forth by the members of the flag team began the second week in June. Practice began at 6 a.m. and ended at 7:30 a.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays during the summer weeks. During the school year practice began at 7:00 a.m. and continued through first hour. The group held performance practices on the practice field at the corner of 107th and Lamar for football, and in the gymnasium for basketball. Chris Rowe, Sharon Kirby, Chris Ubelhart, and Suzanne Luecke served as officers. Flag team sponsored many fund-raising activities during the school year including car washes, bake sales, and various school projects.

Tryouts for flag team, held in April, consisted of a series of marching steps and a flag routine. In a candlelight assembly, the graduating seniors announced the members for next year's Southettes performing group.

Clinics, practice fill drill team summer

Summer vacation meant hours of practice in preparation for the school year performances of the drill team. The drill team practiced two days a week during the summer vacation. The Pacesetters also attended a drill team clinic held on the KU campus in Lawrence. The week-long clinic consisted of a series of pom-pom and dance routines, formulated to give the attending drill teams performance ideas for the following year. At the end of the clinic a contest between groups rated the SMS drill team first in pom-pom and dance routines and second in marching performance.

Precision marching drills and dance routines performed by the Pacesetters entertained the audiences attending South's home football and basketball games along with other school functions. Sharon Wiber, sponsor of the drill team, provided supervision and adult leadership for the group. Maureen Mahoney, Kathy Kenny, Laura Acuff and Carol Houlder served as officers. In April the drill team held their annual extravaganza.

Cheerleaders' agenda keeps them jumping

Captained by Debbie Schmidt, the junior varsity cheerleaders represented all three grade levels for the first time in South's history. The J.V. squad continued their traditions of dining with the opposing team's squad before a game. The sophomore cheerleaders, headed by Susan Thomas, kept the spirit at a new high at sophomore team games. They also helped the junior varsity cheerleaders yell at all varsity functions. As a fund raiser, both the J.V. and the sophomore squads aided the varsity cheerleaders with their annual booth at the AFS carnival.

Working closely with the varsity cheerleaders, the 1974-75 yell leaders devised stunts and cheers to keep spirit high at varsity football and basketball games.

Varsity cheerleaders receive first at clinic

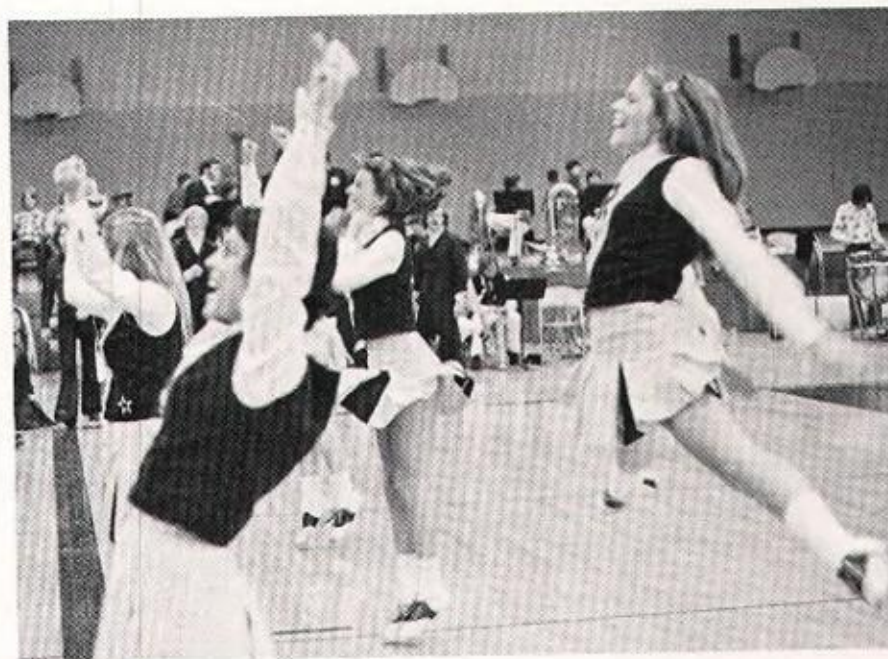

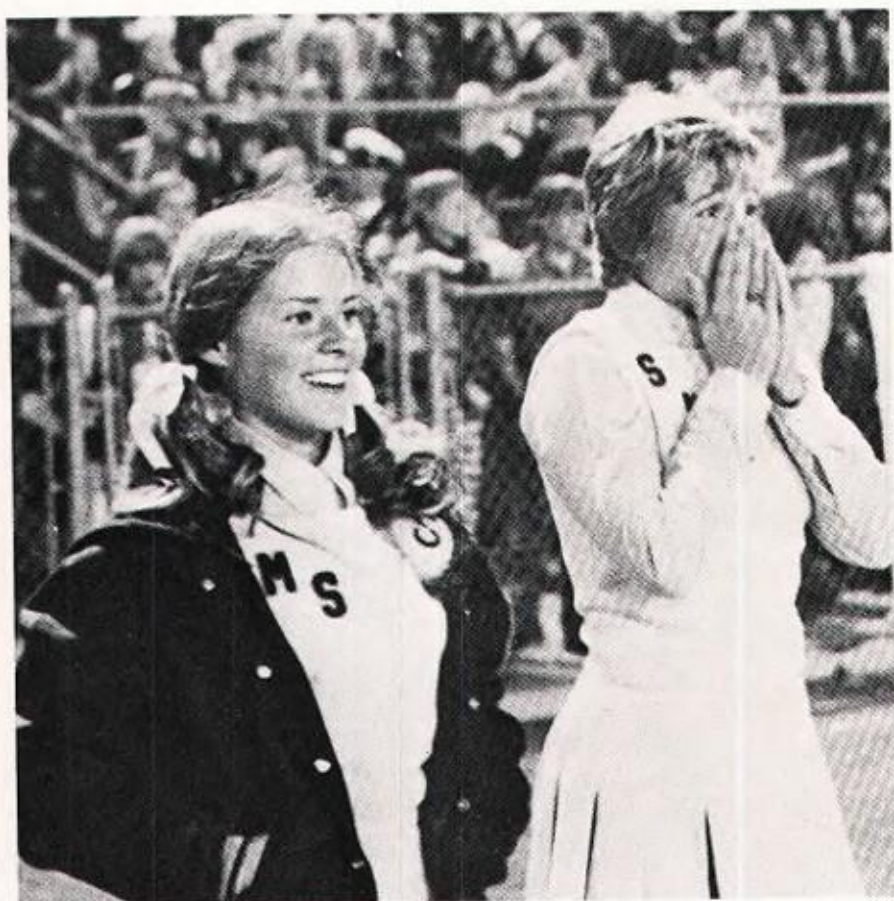

South's Varsity cheerleaders upheld and promoted South spirit during the various athletic seasons of the year. Practices during the summer vacation proved worthwhile when the South cheerleading squad received first place awards at the cheerleading clinic. The clinic provided the attending cheerleading squads with opportunity to acquire new pom-pom routines and cheers. They won awards including the spark plug, spirit stick and several ribbons.

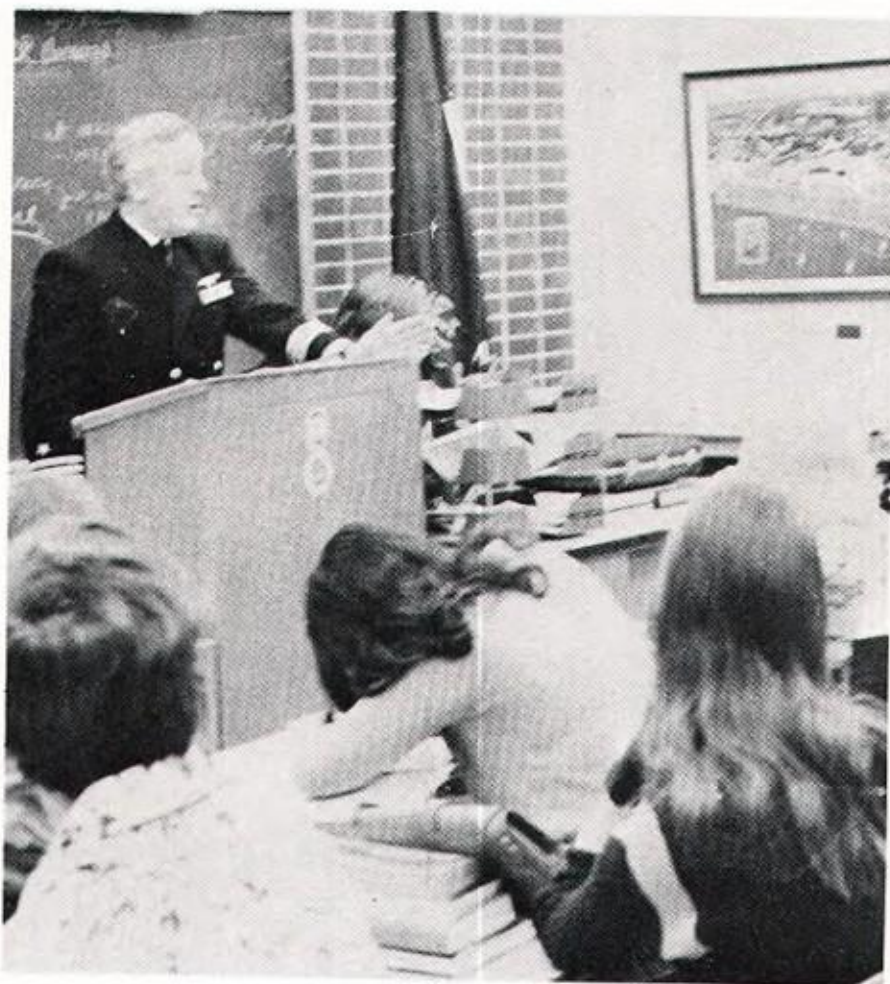

Assemblies and pep rallies also filled the agenda of the cheerleaders. Sherrill Hixon served as the sponsor of the cheerleaders. Tryouts for Varsity cheerleading, held in April, consisted of two separate tryouts. Faculty members, and the captain and co-captain, Sandy Smith and Mindy Smart, comprised the panel of judges. During the second tryout the judges included Pep club members. An assembly, held after school, announced the Varsity cheerleaders for the '75-'76 school year.

NJROTC students in full dress uniform and their dates in long formal dresses highlighted the NJROTC Navy Ball. Queens chosen from each school's unit and various Anchorette groups reigned over the affair held at JUCO in late February. NJROTC members marched in several parades including the Overland Park and the K.C. Veteran's Day Parade. A number of students also formed a boys' drill unit headed by Mike Schooley, Dana Smither and Roger Hutton. As in the past, NJROTC colorguards opened home football and basketball games by presenting the flag before the singing of the National anthem.

Anchoresses gain sponsor

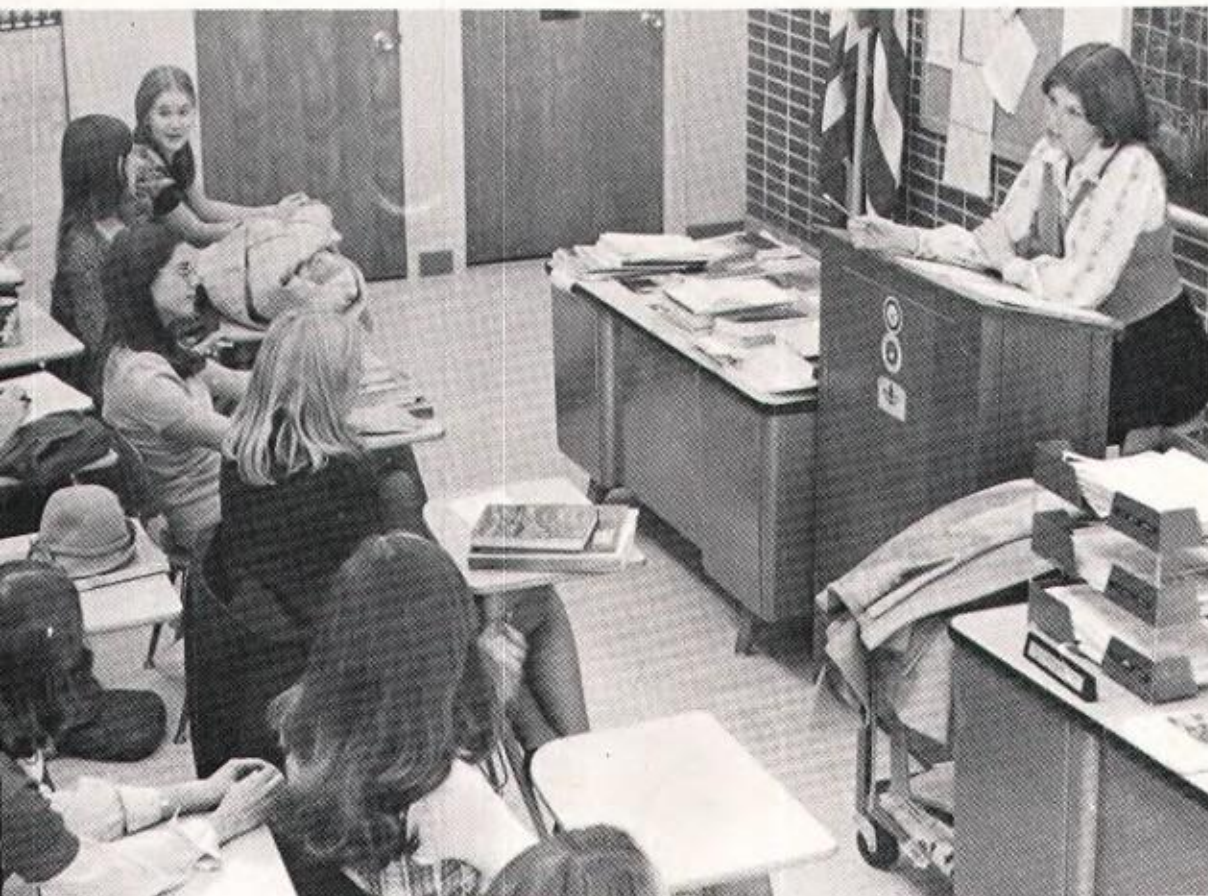

Beginning the year with a new sponsor, Sergeant Major C. K. Land, the Anchoresses continued their work as a service organization. Bake sales and a jump rope marathon, along with other money-making projects, earned money for the group's service projects. One project sent thirty children from an orphanage to a performance of Winnie the Pooh. In another project, they decorated the office and other rooms of the school with Christmas wreaths made with candy. The Anchoresses continued to serve as a saluting unit at football and basketball pre-games. They also ushered at school functions including Back to School Night and the fall concert.

Fund raising activities get StuCo out of red

To erase the debt last year's Student Council left, StuCo sponsored many fund raising activities which included the Free Fair concert, Homecoming, WPA-50's Mixer, Dinner Theatre, Blue Jeans Jam, Sweetheart, WPA-Twirp, and the AFS carnival. StuCo's school assistance projects included directories, calendars, and Confederate flags. Student Council representatives, elected through their second hour classes, voiced the opinions of their classmates and delivered the responses and decisions of StuCo. Any student could become involved with South's Student Council by serving on the AFS, special projects, elections, social, bi-centennial, publicity, student relations, student exchange or interschool congress committees. Helping students to organize and complete projects beneficial to their needs became StuCo's intentions. All profits made by StuCo went toward the needs of the school and student body.

Senior class officers work to earn respect

The Senior Class officers worked throughout the year to improve the Senior Class image and earn the respect of the administration. The officers carried out service projects including parking lot reorganization, Senior Talent Show, and the class gift to the school. A year of planning and fund-raising came to an end for the Junior Class officers with the prom, held in May. The group appointed twenty-five students to serve as crewheads for work groups including decorations, prom servers, and clean-up. The Sophomore officers strove to unify the class and encouraged the majority of sophomores to become involved in school sponsored groups and activities.

SOS Club works to protect nature

The SOS Club, a group of ecologically minded students headed by Gene Hampton, took part in service projects to protect the environment. The group also went on a number of camping and field trips. The Categories team practiced diligently to ready themselves for competition. Trivia is the basis of questions asked each team during a match. The Show Me South Club, formerly the New Students Committee, helped new students to get acquainted with South. The club produced a handbook designed to familiarize new students with South. The DECA Club spent much of their time with fund-raising and service projects. The group sponsored a Christmas Candy Santa Service and collected toys for the children at Mercy Hospital.

Le Cercle, with members from French IV and V classes adopted a needy family and brought them food and gifts during the holidays. The club also took field trips to explore the depths of French culture. The Spanish Club, El Club Amistad, held a number of dinners to enjoy Spanish cuisine. War Games, a new club at South, explored the aspects of war and battle strategy. John Forbes, a history teacher, sponsored the new club.

NFL tournament judges outstanding speakers

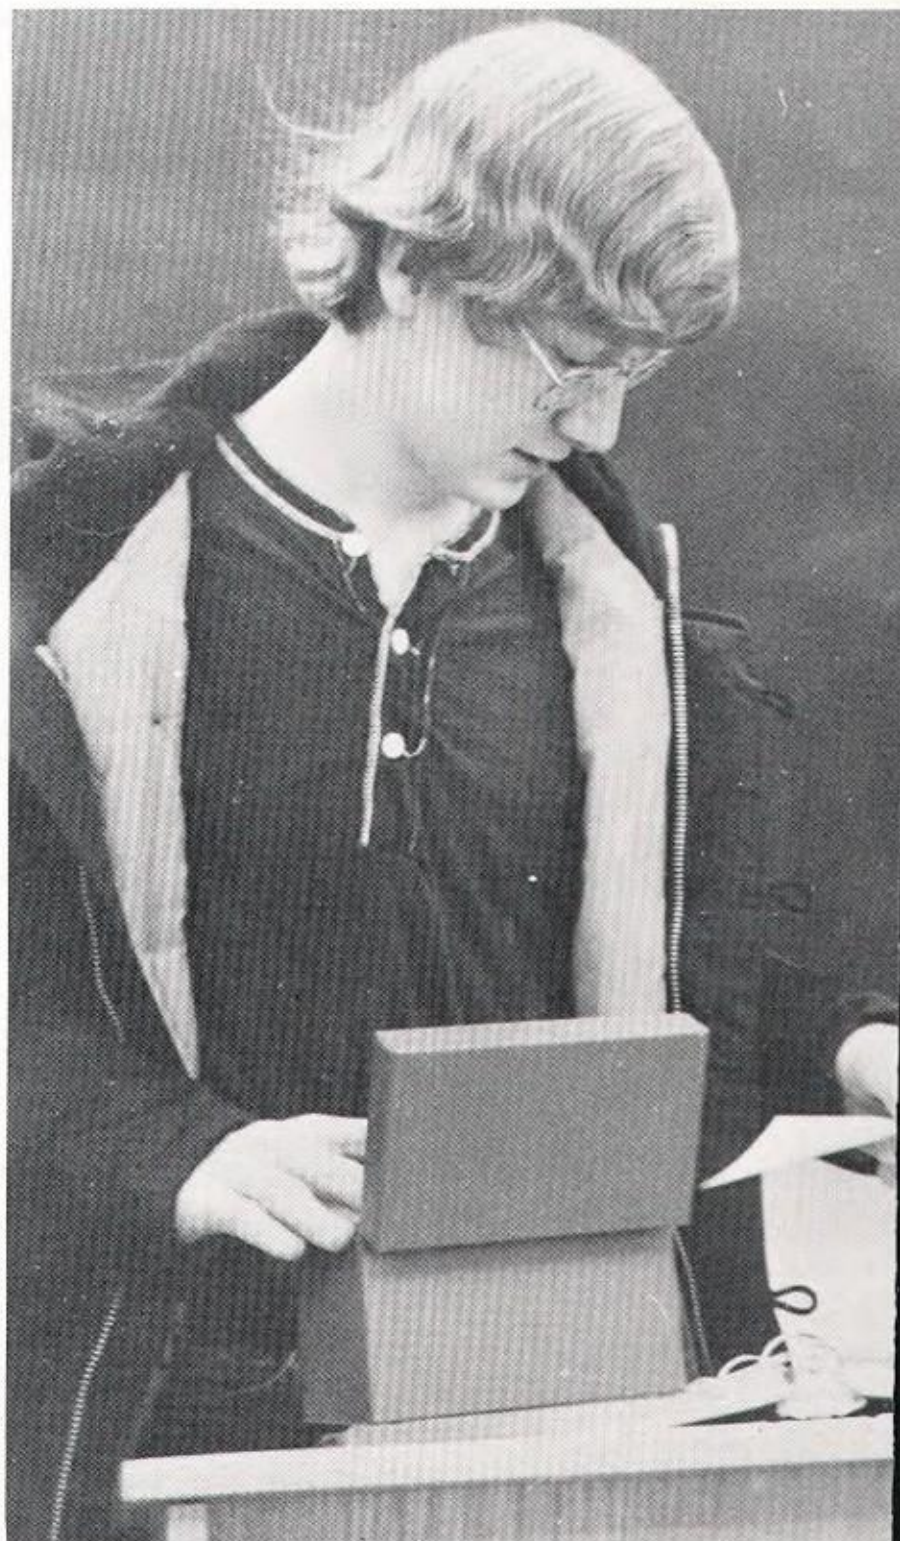

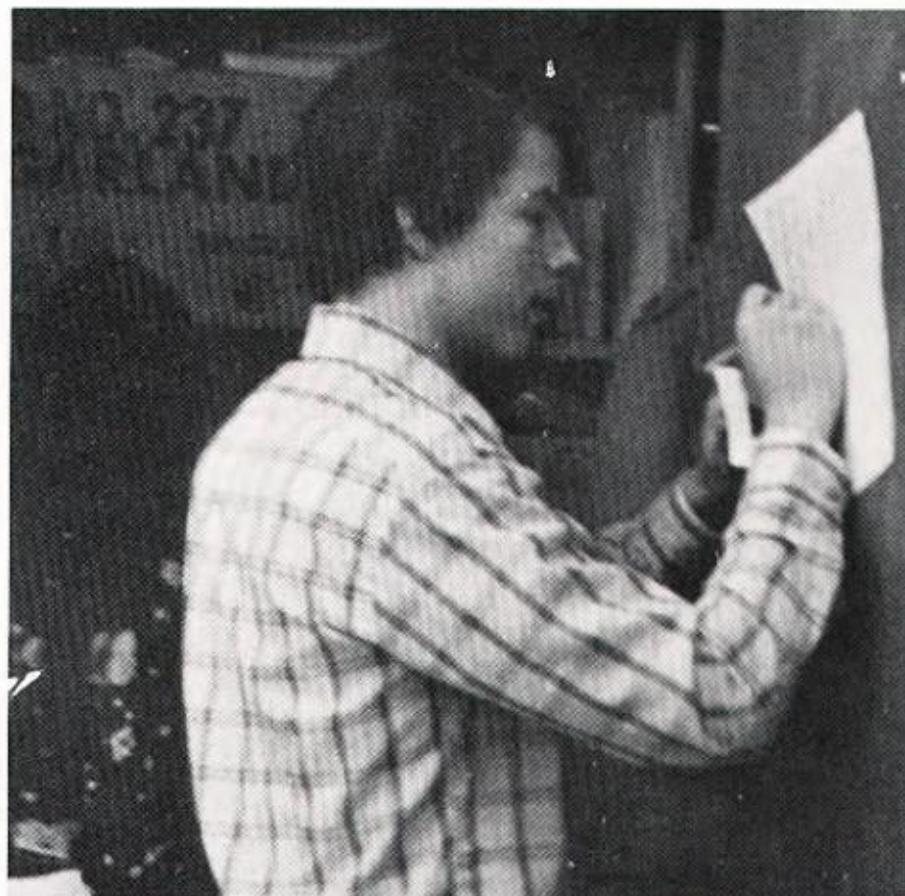

Six students represented South at the NFL competition held at Washington High School. NFL, the National Forensics League, held its annual contest to choose outstanding speakers in different degrees and areas of speech and debate.

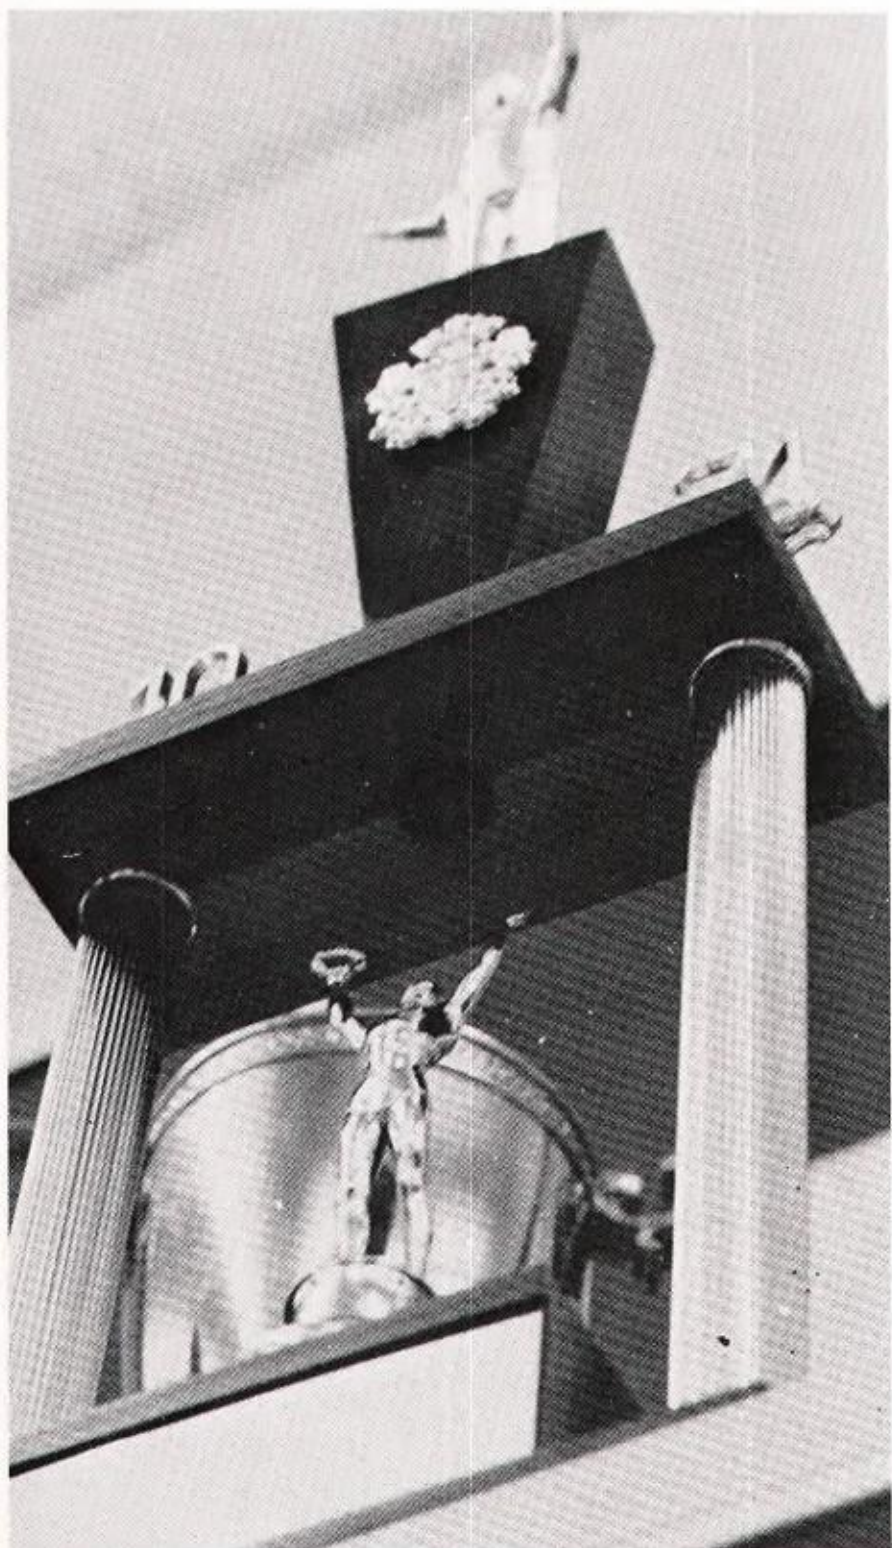

The students representing South included experienced debate and forensics members who, chosen by teacher recommendation, accumulated a large number of speaker points during the regular debate and forensics seasons. Coached and sponsored by Sandi Gresham, the team spent many hours planning negative and affirmative cases and plans to present during the competition.

Thespians receive honors with Antigone

During the summer, the Thespians performed Antigone at the International Theater Arts Conference, ranking them as one of the best theater arts group in the country. The Thespians continued to attend regional and state conferences during the year. They also gave shows around the city and participated in various service projects. Other traditional activities included the opening day watermelon feed, opening night receptions, cast parties and the spring banquet; with special awards given to outstanding Thespians. Several initiations admitting members also occurred. The new members, chosen by a special initiation committee, faced a take-off on the Hollywood Squares as their initiation rites.

Drama group unifies dept.

Combining the several drama groups of the past years in order to unify the theatre arts department, a new group, the Theater Ensemble, came into existence. The group performed puppet and mime shows as well as regular productions for the elementary schools and the community. They also appeared as regular cast members in the Wizard of Oz and Godspell. Entrance into the group took place through auditions only. The ensemble consisted of twelve members and met as a class during sixth hour. The members also wore distinctive blue uniforms on Thursday. The captain of the Theater Ensemble, Craig McElvain, kept the group organized and running smoothly.

Soph. Girls Ensemble accommodates new talent

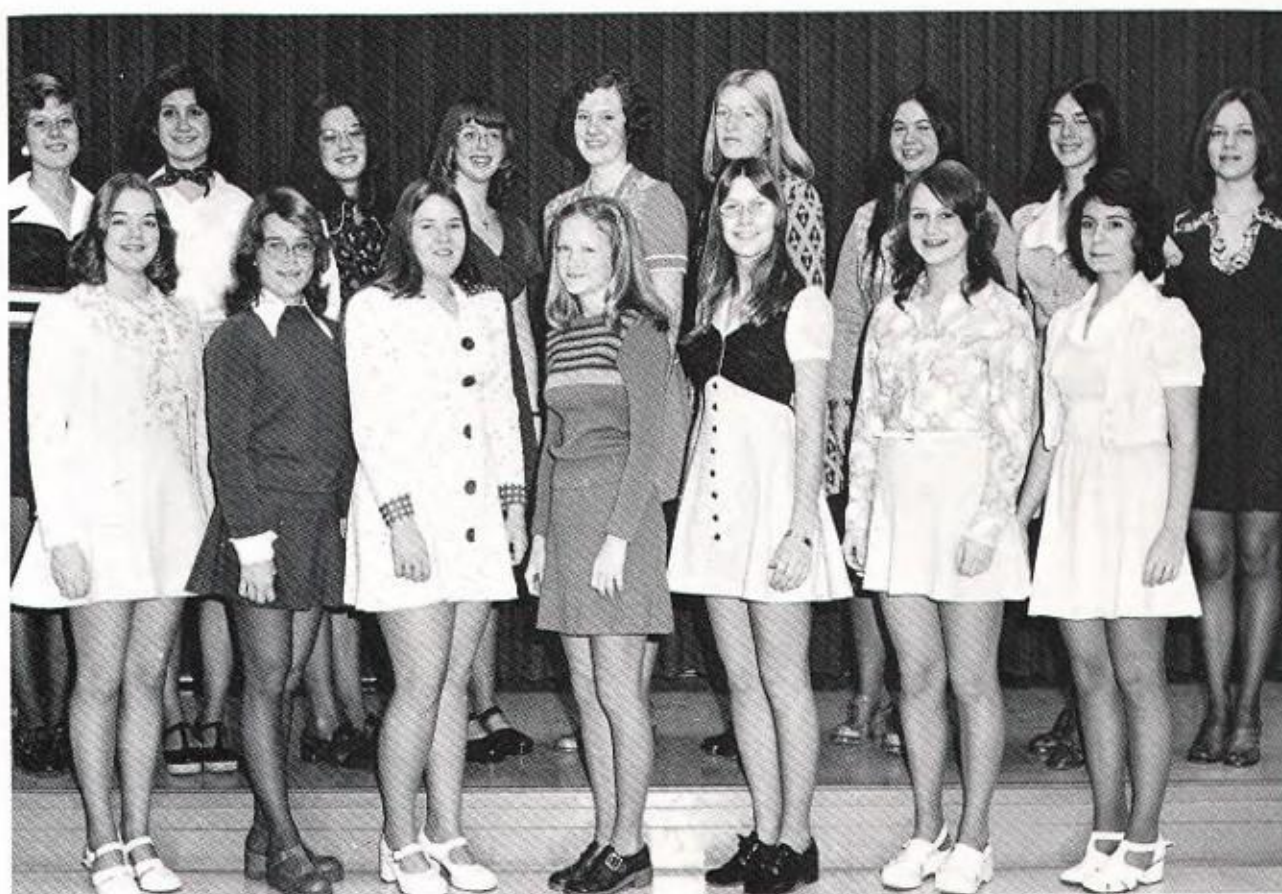

Cheerleaders, a large mixed choir consisting of students from all three grade levels performed with various other vocal music groups at the numerous concerts scheduled throughout the year. The Choraleers also participated in the annual exchange concerts with other high schools.

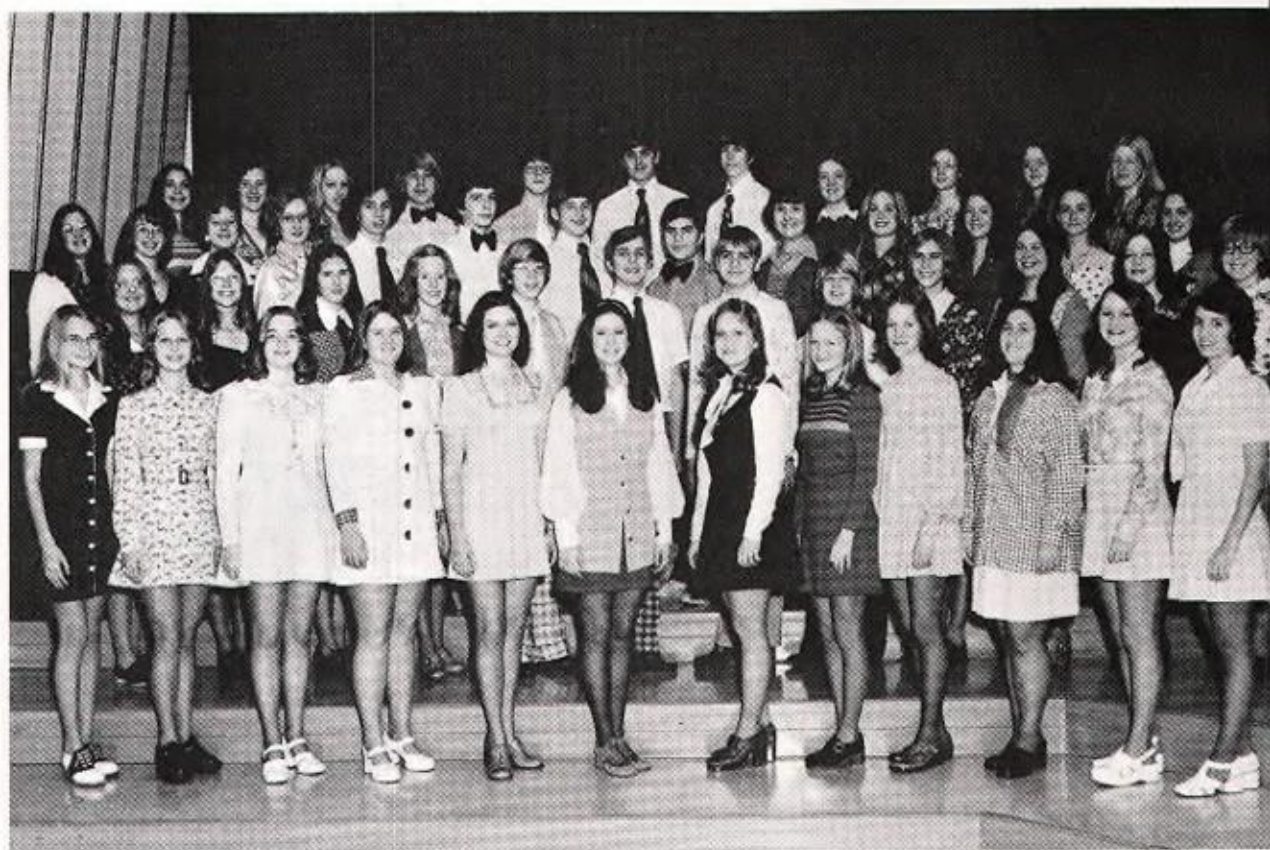

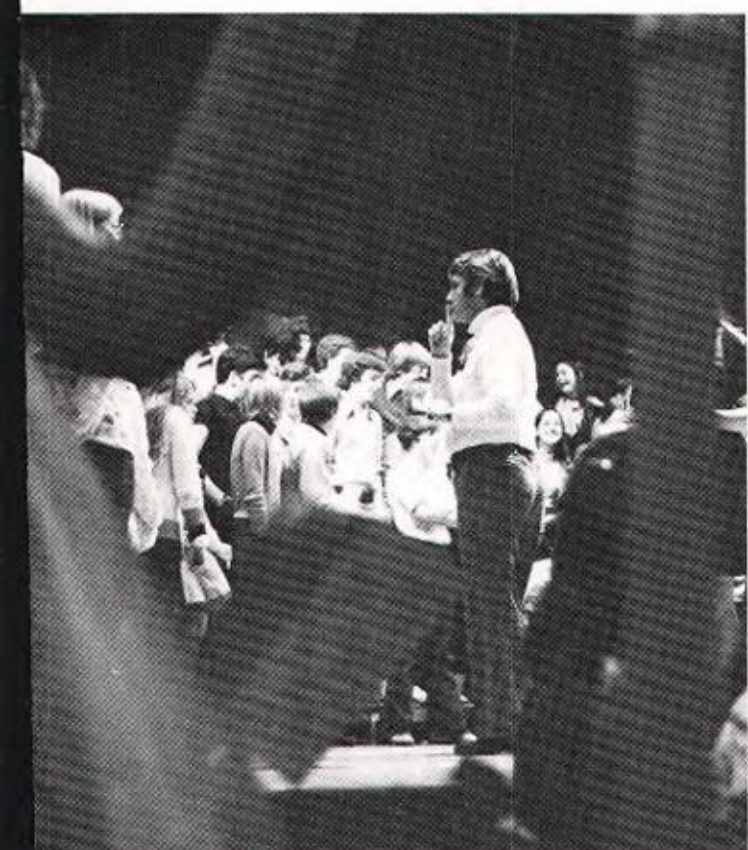

In addition to the traditional Sophomore Ensemble a new ensemble, Sophomore Girls, came into existence at South. The new group, formed due to the large number of new talented vocal music students, practiced before school to ready themselves for South's customary concerts. The extra-curricular ensemble also sang at Vespers, and State Music Contest.

Students in Concert Choir I, chosen by recommendation from their junior high school music instructors, exhibited their talents at many of the music departments concerts. The large mixed choir highlighted the Christmas season by carolling and performing at Vespers.

Chanterelles prepare a nostalgia medley

Showing creativity as well as talent, the Chanterelles, a select group of Chanticleers, put together a nostalgia medley from the 30's and 40's. The choir practiced bi-weekly in order to perfect their voices for performances for community organizations.

The Chanticleers, a junior and senior girls chorus, continued to gain musical talent. The group appeared as one of the seven ensembles invited from the Kansas City area to the Honors Choral Festival at UMKC. Eugene Butler, a renowned composer, dedicated a song written for a three part women's chorus to the Chanticleers and Ms. Lerner.

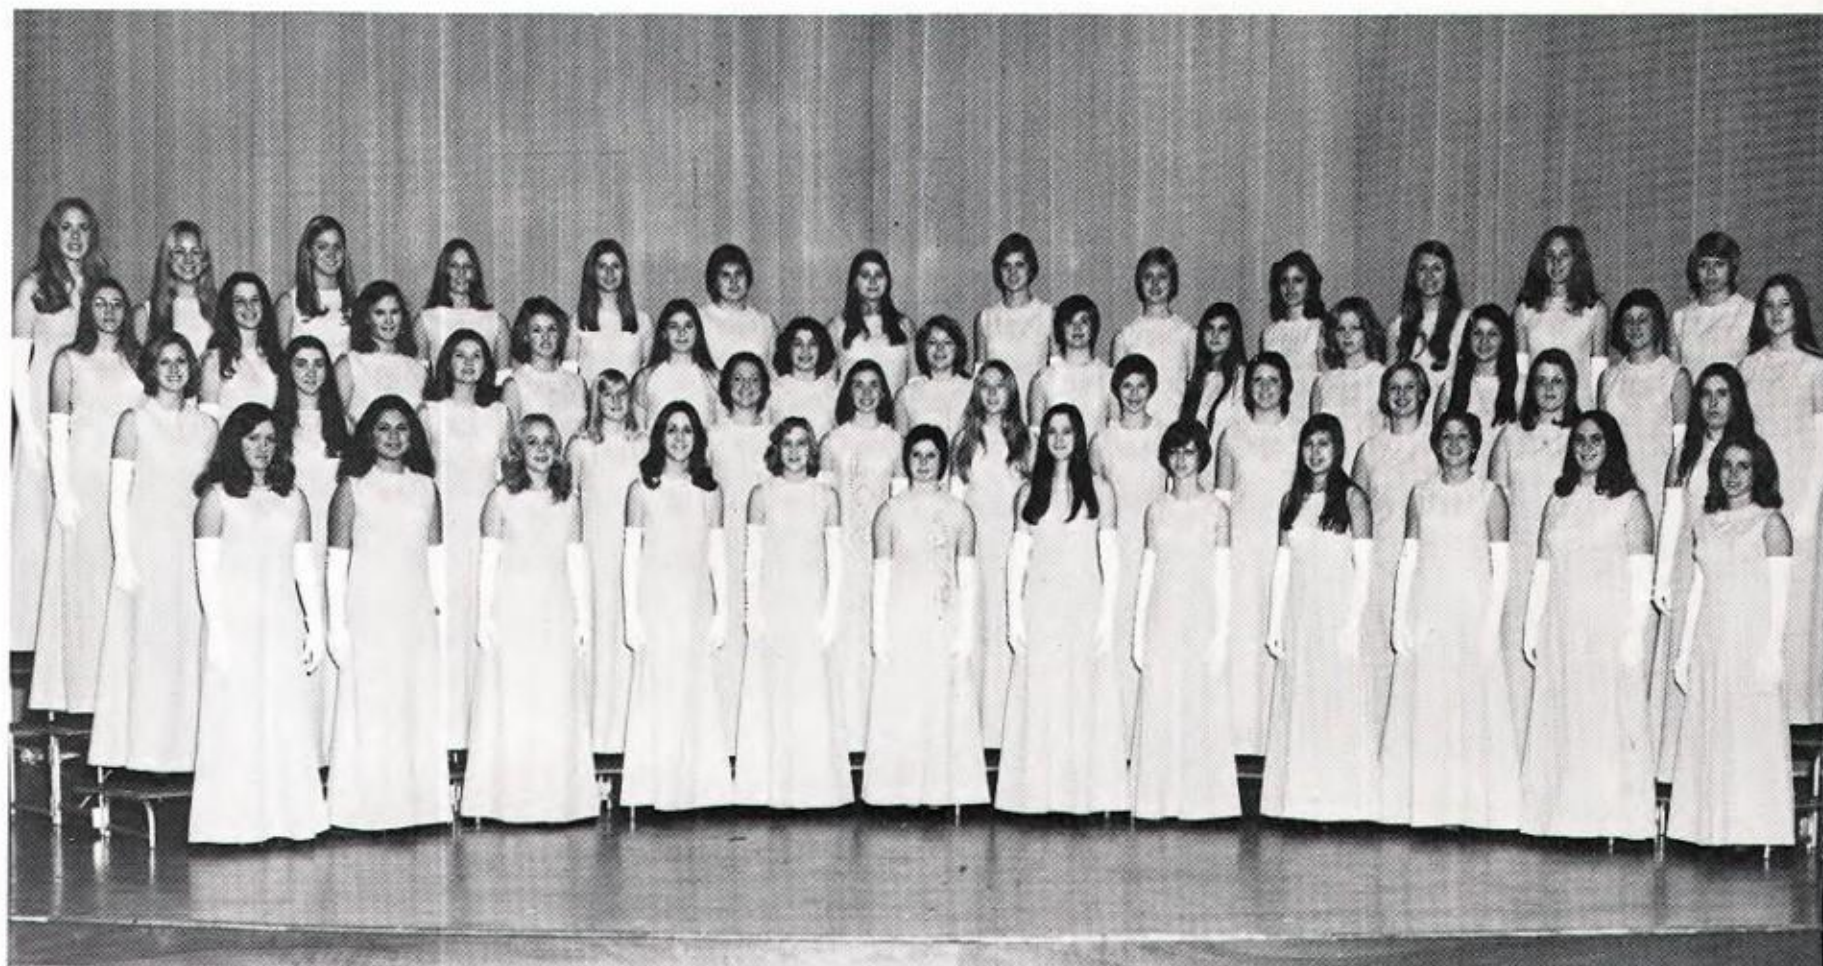

The Sophomore Ensemble, an extracurricular vocal group, practiced before school to prepare for Vespers, the State Music Contest, and various concerts for a number of community organizations.

Music groups receive many superior ratings

Performing at regular school concerts, state musicals, festivals and community functions, seventy-four select juniors and seniors comprised the A Cappella choir. The group received recognition with consistent one ratings at state music contests. The Heritage Singers, a very select group of juniors and seniors from the A Cappella choir, performed at functions including small assemblies, public relations concerts, community clinics, and recruiting programs. The Heritage Singers also played an active role in the State Music Festival and received superior ratings.

Varsity Men, a select group, emphasized and demonstrated boys' ensemble singing at a very specialized level of performance. They also played an important role in recruiting male voices for the choral music programs at South. Varsity Men practiced before school throughout the year to perfect their talents.

Strings play for concerts

South's 30-member orchestra practiced sixth hour each day during the school year. The orchestra, directed by Marcus Dowty, competed against several orchestras at the state contest. Performances by the group included Vespers and Masterworks concerts along with concerts with South's vocal groups and other instrumental groups. Several members of the group comprised the pit orchestra for South's musical, The Wizard of Oz. The string and wind ensemble placed eight members on the All State Orchestra.

Marching Band ends; Symphonic begins

After Marching Band season ended in late November, James Cochran held tryouts for South's Symphonic Band. The 80-member band performed several times during the year. Memorable performances included the winter, spring, and Masterworks concerts. The Symphonic Band and the A Capella choir combined their talents in January to perform "Song of Democracy" in the annual Masterworks concert. On February 19, the Symphonic Band traveled to Emporia State to participate in a band clinic. During April, individuals and small ensembles competed in the state instrumental contest, playing traditional or modern pieces. Composed of a majority of sophomores, the Concert Band also presented classical concert pieces.

Jazz Band enters into school curriculum

The music department added Jazz Band into its curriculum this year. In years before the members of the band practiced before and after school. South became the first school in the district to include Jazz Band as a regular class, with two sections meeting fourth and fifth hours. The twenty member band, directed by James Cochran, received a rating as one of the top Jazz ensembles in the Shawnee Mission District. Memorable performances by the band included the Jazz Festival on April 19, and the annual Jazz concert in May. Late in March the group performed in the Raytown South Jazz Festival. Original and professional jazz compositions entertained the audiences at their performances.

Inscriptions contains creative student work

Students displayed their creative talents in South's literary magazine, Inscriptions. The completely student produced annual magazine presented "The Spiral Staircase" as the theme for the feature section of the literary work.

Sponsored by Ms. Jan Breece, the five editors and their general staffs put in many long hours of hard work to meet their pre-established goals of improved overall quality and variety in layout style and design.

Receiving all literary materials by mid-December made Inscriptions available to South's students during Fine Arts Week in the spring.

Staffs add columns; try weekly publication

In order to provide better coverage of outside school events, the Patriot staff strived to reinforce their weekly news stories with three new feature columns. Sport Shorts, News Notes, and Voices comprised the newly formed threesome. Voices, a students' opinion column, reflected the views of selected students on current issues. Altman's Analysis, written by sports editor Ron Altman, gave a personal insight into South's world of sports.

During the month of October, the staff worked diligently to produce a weekly paper instead of the traditional bi-weekly paper. The twenty-member group, all graduates of Journalism I, selected Jeanette Pai's design as the official banner for the paper. Under the sponsorship of Cathy Zumbuhl, the group bought and wore uniformly black and white T-shirts on selected Thursdays and Fridays.

Summer: An active time at S.M. South

Summer school began a week after the regular school year ended. The two sessions ran from June 6-Aug. 2. Over 1,000 students attended both sessions attending school four hours per day. The performing groups at South, Drill Team, Flag Team, Marching Band, and Cheerleaders, practiced regularly and attended clinics during the summer. A select number of students attended Girls' and Boys' State held at the University of Kansas. Over a period of a week the students formed a simulation of our governmental system.

After taking the PSAT/NMSQT Test, nine South students qualified as National Merit Semi-finalists. These students represented the upper half of one percent of the students taking the test. Students who usually take the PSAT/NMSQT in the fall of their junior year must score high on the test and be recommended by the teachers to qualify. Ninety percent of the semi-finalists go on to become finalists.

Quill and Scroll picks from literary staffs

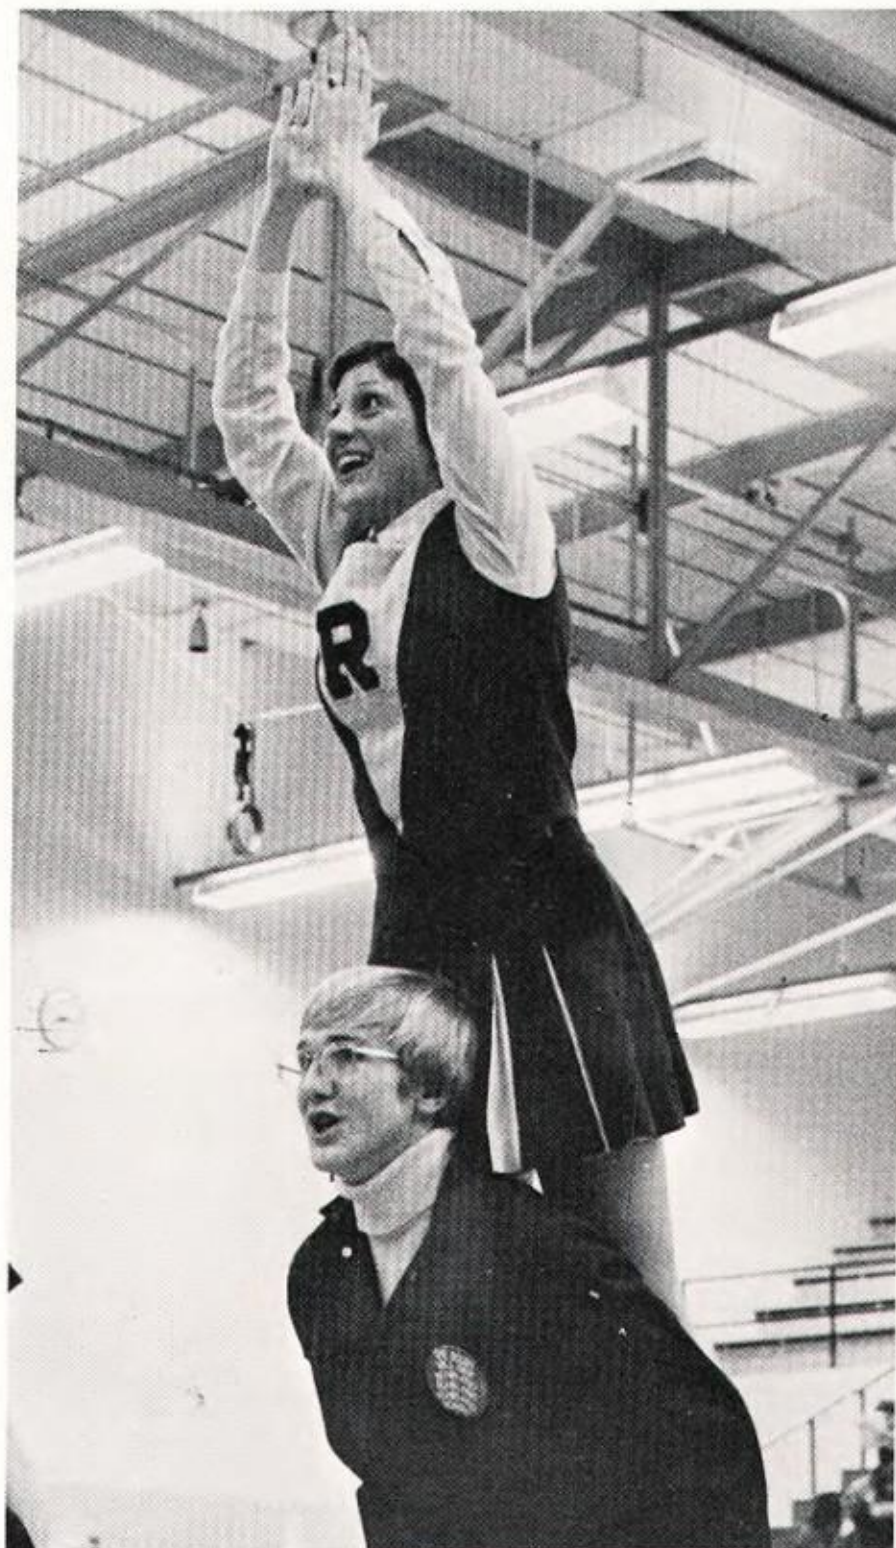

Quill and Scroll, the international honorary society for high school journalism students, selected members from the Heritage, Patriot, and Inscriptions staffs. The society annually gives 30,000 students from the United States and other countries the opportunity to join. The qualifications for Quill and Scroll included significant contributions to the literary organizations, interest in the field of journalism and high academic achievement.

The National Honor Society also chose new members in May. Teachers voted on students from the junior and senior class on the basis of involvement in school activities and leadership abilities.

International Club welcomes new students

Upon their arrival in Kansas City, South's four foreign exchange students received a warm welcome from the International Club. The twenty member club worked during the summer and throughout the year to make the students' stay both educational and enjoyable. The group supplemented their Wednesday morning meetings with weekend parties. Sponsored by Jim McCoy and Cheryl Hixon, the club welcomed back Chris Caldwell, a South student who spent a year in South Africa.

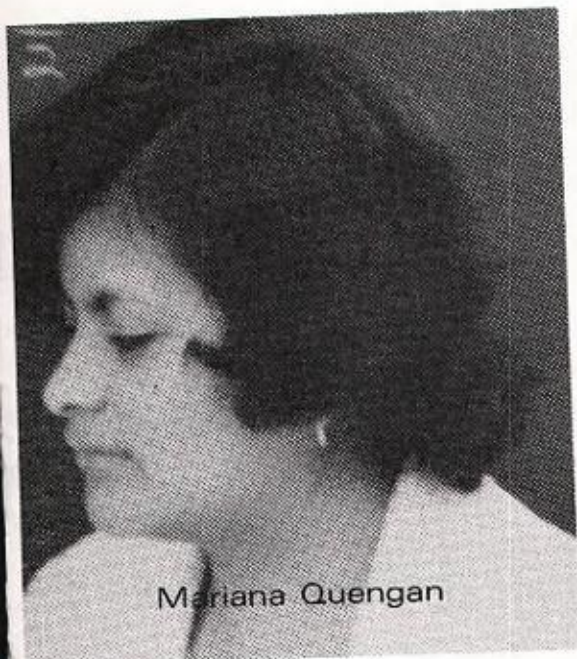

The group sponsored many fund-raising activities in an attempt to involve both the adult and business communities.

Originality, more variety in assemblies

Stressing variety, South's assemblies showed new originality. Pep Club sponsored a number of assemblies to boost school spirit. Flag team and drill team skits highlighted these assemblies. StuCo sponsored an assembly to urge student participation in school clubs and organizations. The rock group Free Fare performed for the enjoyment of the students. The Drama department held cuttings for all its major theatre productions including Look Homeward Angel and The Odd Couple.

Strong competition for parts in fall play

Although encountering only minor difficulties, the fall play, Look Homeward Angel, achieved the portrayal of the story of a seventeen-year-old boy trying to settle the problems of his family while attempting to find his own place in the world. One hundred and twenty-five tried out for a cast of nineteen and four extras. The cast started practicing after school early in September in order to perfect their roles. Eugene Gant, the most demanding role, presented a challenge to Steve Passer, as his character progressed from a young, immature seventeen-year-old to a mature adult. Robin Scott also found difficulty in portraying Eliza Gant, her first dramatic role in a production. Both Robin Scott and Steve Passer faced problems in portraying the relationship between a dominant, aggressive mother and her son. Lisa Weir, who portrayed Madame Elizabeth, designed the posters used to advertise the play.

Fall play tech. crews work to create mood

The technical crews for the fall production of Look Homeward, Angel spent much time and energy creating the sets and costumes used for the play. The construction crew, working since last September, practically built a house of the Victorian period from flats. The painting crew also aided in the creation of the house. Many crews faced the difficulty of living up to last year's deeds. The props crew had problems in trying to locate tombstones, and ended up using a plastic lamb from a manger scene in one act. The turntable used to change the bedrooms between scenes did not work, with such events as the wheels falling off, a common occurrence. Fifteen boys ended up turning the set. A loose wall also plagued the turntable. The sound crew had trouble locating music of the period. The lighting crew experienced a moment of panic when the dimmers caught fire during one performance and had to be rewired quickly.

Above: Publicity crew head, Rick Mundy, puts the final touches on an advertisement for the fall play. Large mural-type ads were placed strategically around the school to catch the interest of a large number of students.

Children add new dimension to cast

Music Repertory Theatre, a sixth hour class, tested the workability of utilizing the class as a source for theatrical production casts and crews. To broaden the scope of the experiment, the musical featured students as the director and choreographer. The Munchkins, portrayed by the chorus and children from elementary schools, added a new dimension to the cast. The children, younger brothers and sisters of the cast members, in the second thru fourth grade, brought new energy to the stage. South students performed the speaking and singing parts for the Munchkins. The parts for the chorus also included the guards, the flying monkeys, and the dancing citizens of Emerald City. In addition to the usual performances for South students and parents, two matinees offered grade school children a chance to see the play.

Oz production uses students as directors

Under the supervision of director Steve Passer, the Wizard of Oz utilized student talent in its technical production and management. Musical director, Cindy Langston, and orchestra director, Harold Steinhardt, combined efforts to perfect the musical score of Oz. Monica Miller choreographed the production's dance numbers. The backstage crews of Oz performed a variety of duties including set building, painting, props, lighting and sound. Various other crews concentrated on costumes, makeup, publicity and tickets sales. Special effects, a newly formed crew, worked on making tornadoes, flying monkeys, rainbows and a melting wicked witch seem lifelike. Special set designs including a black and white Kansas set and a full color Land of Oz posed problems for the painting and construction crews.

Minor productions involve students

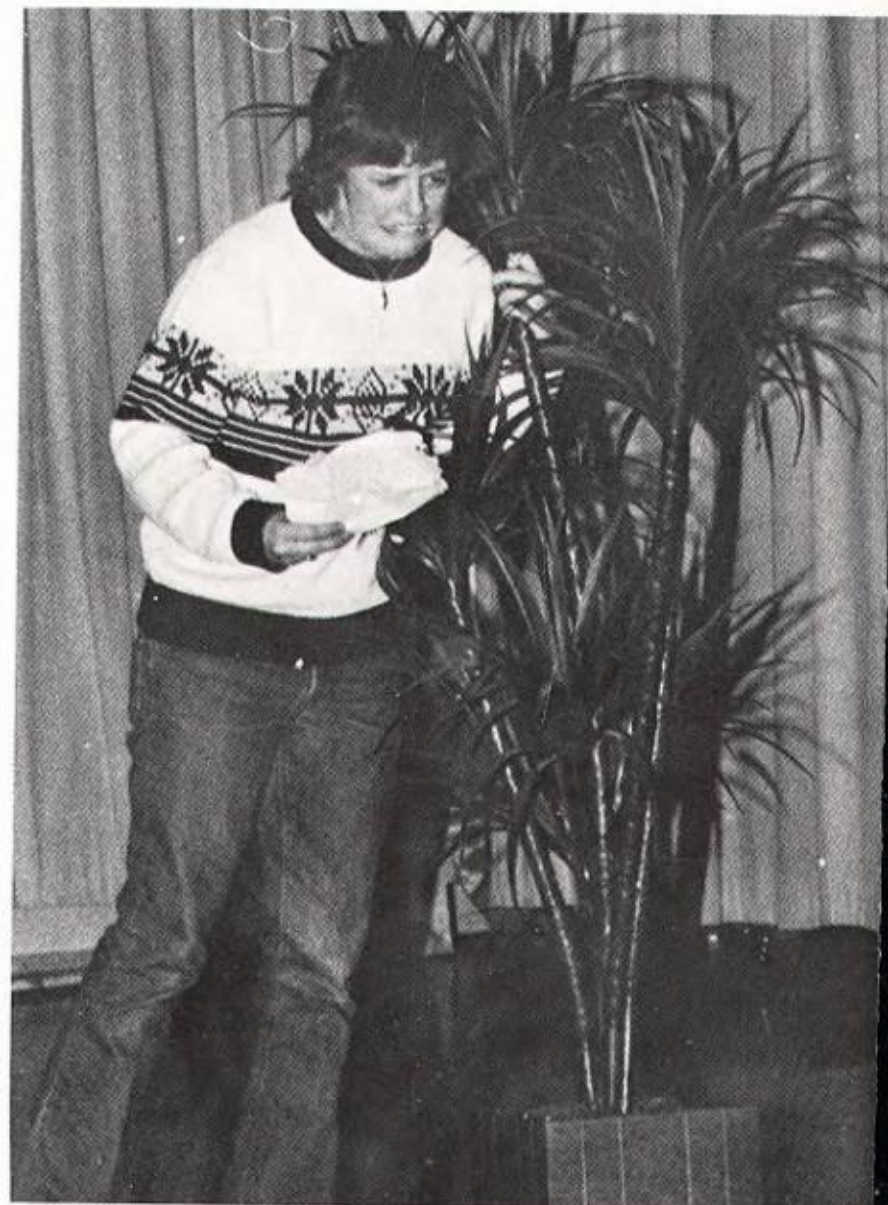

In addition to South's major drama productions, the Theater department presented many minor productions. These productions gave more students an opportunity to participate in entertainment oriented theater. The presentations emphasized theater theory and the refinement of raw acting talent rather than dwelling on things of secondary importance including props and scenery. A notable reduction in the number of minor productions resulted from the abundance of major productions put on for South audiences.

Minor productions augment drama program

Many innovations came into existence in the Theater Arts department with the performances of Winnie the Pooh, The Odd Couple, and Tartuffe. One innovation included student directors, as in Winnie the Pooh, a children's show directed by Jane Schultz, and Tartuffe, directed by Craig McElvain. Tartuffe also became the first joint theater project, with the faculty, students, and the community involved. The Odd Couple also marked a new era in South's theater presentation by becoming the first dinner theater. This year also marked the demise of the minor productions by the Introduction to Theater classes as a result of the number of major productions put on by the student body.

Centers provide new services

To provide a service for those students having difficulty in any subject, especially English, the administration made use of a new Learning Center concept. Located in room 256, the Center gave students a chance to learn at their own pace, without classroom pressures.

Art Clements and his staff worked throughout the year to expedite production procedures in the newly formed production Center ranging from printing simple dittos to making up complete transparencies and lamentations for teachers' use. The administration created this new Center to stem the rising amount of paper and materials that the school wasted at the hands of inexperienced technicians in previous years.

Dances add new twist

The jitterbug, bobby socks and bubblegum highlighted the 50's dance, jointly sponsored by drill team and StuCo. The WPA provided a chance for the girls to take out their favorite guys. The dance, held in South's cafeteria, featured a number of contests including a twist and jitterbug competition, a bubble gum blowing contest and a best costume contest. With the aid of StuCo the Anchorettes sponsored a Jeans Jam dance. The informal dance served as a fund raiser for the Anchorettes.

Camelot sets theme for Homecoming

Homecoming, a traditional highlight of the school year, saw Mindy Smart receive the crown of Homecoming Queen. Stacy Ramos received first attendant honors, and Cari Ullom became the second attendant. As the marching band played "If Ever I Would Leave You," the Homecoming candidates dressed in royal purple and white, advanced around the football field in convertibles to meet the Camelot styled float made completely from newspaper, centered in front of the South stands. The addition of drill team and flag team on the field completed the Homecoming array. Diane Layman, Lori Barns, and Susan Hill, returning Pep Club executives crowned the winners. After the victory of the Raider football team, the Homecoming dance began in the school cafeteria.

To provide the festivities for Homecoming, Pep Club worked jointly with the Student Council. Due to the enormous turnout at the dance, StuCo made a needed $300 profit.

Amidst a rainbow of colors in the South gymnasium Suzanne Luecke reigned as the 1974-1975 Sweetheart queen. Cathy Naughton and Gayle Waller received first and second attendant honors. The Sweetheart candidates, elected by the Senior class, complimented the decor by dressing in pink floor length dresses. The plans and decorations for South's Sweetheart required many hours of work from Pep Club members under the direction of Debbie Jacobson, Pep Club Vice-President. The Sweetheart dance, held after the game, began at 10:30. The dance raised money for its sponsor, the Student Council. South's Raider basketball team defeated the Rockhurst Hawklets the night of the Sweetheart announcements.

Staff selects Royalty from summaries

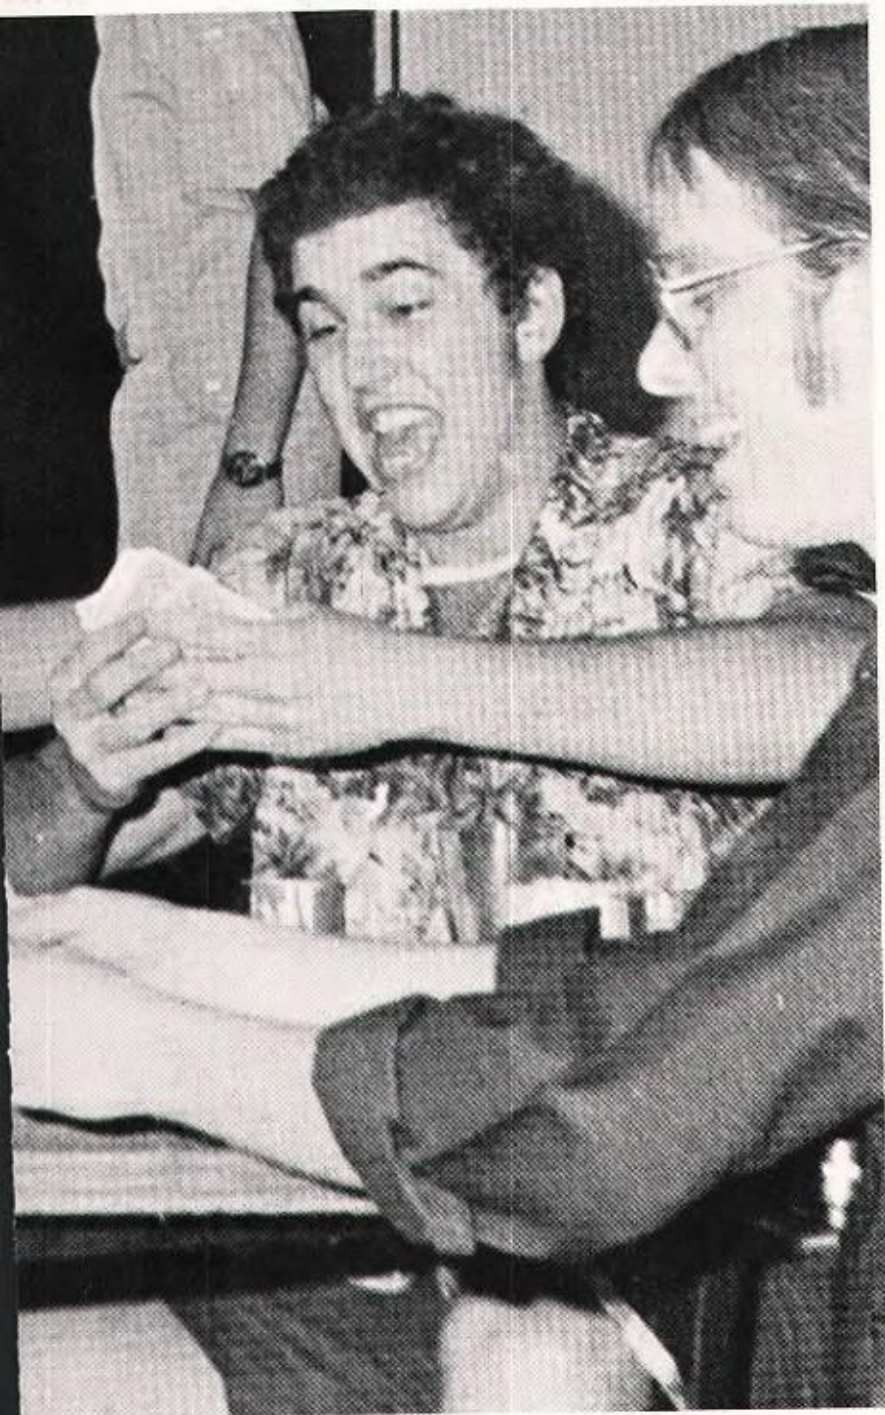

From all the senior summaries received in January, the junior staff members of the Heritage Yearbook chose ten girls and ten boys to comprise the Heritage Royalty Court. The twenty seniors, selected on the basis of their involvement in school-related activities, participated in at least three areas of activity including athletics, Pep Club, music, debate, journalism, student government, drama, NJROTC, and scholastic achievement. The results of the all-school election held in February named Stacy Ramos and Craig McElvain as Heritage Royalty King and Queen. First attendant honors went to Patti O'Brien and Paul Spencer, while Dana Joseph and Steve Passer became second attendants.

Free Fare concert was really enjoyable. It gave a chance for the students to "let go" during their normal daily routine.

We're lucky the Free Fare assembly was free.

For a free concert in addition to missing class, it was great.

They really know how to preform.

It's hard to tap your feet when you're sitting on the floor.

The day went much quicker after that.

Miller and Bennet's race for governor was exciting and very unlike anything I've observed politically.

I'm glad who ever won, won.

Voting is just another thing that I'm too young to do.

It's too bad that Kansas is so politically unbalanced for one party.

Miller had some good points to make, but governor?

It seems bad that all the big state-wide races overshadow the local races that in some ways are more important than State Printer, for example.

The President and the Pardon of Mr. Nixon

President Gerald R. Ford's pardon of Richard M. Nixon was a serious mistake. The timing was wrong. The reasons given in justification were wrong. The President said both too much and too little. Instead of healing the nation, the act has further divided the nation. Instead of shutting and sealing the book on Watergate, the pardon has injected another politically explosive chapter. President Ford could have exercised clemency at a later date, for much better reasons and with far less damage to our national ideal of equal justice for all.

President Ford acted conscientiously, but he did not act correctly. He was obligated to follow the dictates of his conscience, but so was his press secretary, J. F. terHorst, who resigned because he knew he could not, in good what would best serve the cause of domestic peace. There are many Americans in every walk of life who are deeply convinced that, despite our profession of equal justice for all, there is, in reality, one law for the rich and powerful and another law for the weak and poor. President Ford's pardon of Mr. Nixon—given its timing and its reasoning—will strongly reinforce popular dissatisfaction with the administration of justice. Much more is now involved than the fate of Mr. Nixon. The question is whether any American President can ever be held criminally accountable for his crimes in office.

President Ford would have made more sense if he had justified his pardon solely in terms of Mr. Nixon's health. By adding the concepts of criminal due process and Smoking is not a federal offense and should not be treated as one.

Shoot all the freaks and you won't have to worry about it.

If man were meant to smoke he would have been born on fire.

Kissing a smoker is like licking out a dirty ashtray.

Why can teachers smoke when students can't? The whole west side of the third floor smells a lot like smoke.

Great if you like poisoning yourself with tars and nicotine.

I.Q. 150?

Who cares about who invented
the first pencil sharpener?

I wish I were as smart as they are.

Reminiscent of the milk patrol in kindergarten.

An ineffective waste of human resources.

I think it's great because all the kids that skip should be shot at dawn.

Teachers should be glad their students come to class . . . so what if they're a little late?

Blind Man

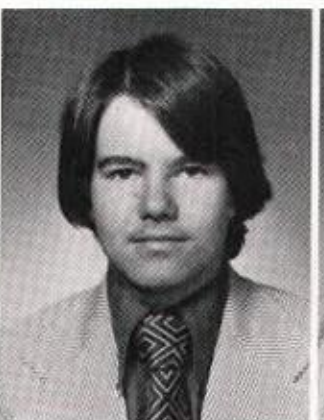

The smell of bacon creeping in the house
like a nightwatchman on the graveyard shift is the warmth of a home.

The sound of jets rising overhead and the pounding of a train passing by is the thrill of the progress of mankind.

The feel of clean sheets as you slip into them for the first time is the security of the privileged.

The sound of the early dawn birds singing, dogs barking, life beginning is the realization of God's presence.

These are the pleasures of a blind man.
Although he is left out of the joy of seeing this does not false him
for he knows as much.

With the closing of my high school life I look back upon it with joy. My people, whose attitude differs from mine, despise South. I, for one, will never be able to thank the people at South enough for helping me mature throughout these past 3 years, once again thanks from the bottom of my heart. I love you all. P.S. Ed, Sheryl, Risa—Ain't that a peach!!!

 I can't say it was a good year
 After all, "I fumbled on the one"
 I can't say it was a bad year
 For that started all the fun
 I can't say it went slow
 For the end is soon to come
 I can't say it went fast

Pull myself out of bed, put on my walkin'

When the white eagle of the north is flying overhead
The brown reds and golds of autumn live
in gutter, dead.
Remember then, that summer birds with wings of fire flaying Came to witness Spring's new hope, born of leaves decaying.
Just as new life will come from death, Love will

There are those who have little and give it all.

These are the believers in life and the bounty of life, and their coffer is never empty.

These are those who give with joy, and joy is their reward.

And there are those who give with pain, and that pain is their baptism.

And there are those who give and know not pain in giving, nor do they seek joy, nor give with mindfulness of virtue;

They give as in yonder valley the myrtle breathes its fragrance into space.

Through the hands of such as these God speaks; and from behind their eyes He smiles upon the earth.

On entering the building
One is lost in the sea of faces

They are not alone
They are friends.

The sea runs without end, sometimes slowly, sometimes swiftly, eternally creating formations and images in the sand. It is the same with life. We live, some of us quickly, others with caution, taking time, and the experiences create lines and impressions, and our faces, like the sand, show what happens in our soul.

"But I don't want to go among mad people," Alice remarked. "Oh you can't help that," said the Cat, "we're all mad here. I'm mad. You're mad." "How do you know I'm mad?" said Alice. "You must be," said the Cat, "or you wouldn't have come here."

Now needing a hand to cling to

Lucky I was to find

Someone of similar mind to stand behind me

Not letting dazzlement blind me

Showing me where to find me

Willing to just be kind and stand behind me.

—Carole King

Thanks for everything P.B.

Sometimes not often enough we reflect upon the good things. And those thoughts always center around those you love. And I think about those people, who mean so much to me, and for so many years have made me so very happy. And I count the times I have forgotten to say thank you and just how much I love them.

*Headed towards the pursuit of happiness,
I look for knowledge only of everyday life,
the promises of tomorrow,
the memories of yesterday,
the warmth of the sun,
the sparkle of the snowflake,
the simplicity of your own discoveries,
as life goes on,
let today be the beginning of many beautiful tomorrows.*

There is no difficulty that enough love will not conquer; No disease — that enough love will not heal; No door that enough love — will not open; No gulf that enough love — will not bridge; No wall that enough love — will not throw down; No sin that enough love will not redeem. It makes no difference — how deeply seated may be the trouble, How hopeless the outlook, How muddled the tangle, How great the mistake; A sufficient realization of love — will dissolve it all. . . If only you could love — enough you would be the happiest and most powerful being in the world. . .

*Education is a companion which no misfortune
can decrease, no crime destroy, no enemy alienate, no despotism enslave; at home
a friend,
abroad an introduction, in solitude a

in society an ornament.
Education may cast financial sacrifice cost one hundred fold.*

School is a place to learn and not to be programmed into what the Administration wants you to be. To have enjoyment in this school you must participate in sports or be active in school functions. They try to make you into something you don't want to be. There is no individualism. This school is like George Orwell's 1984 and Big Brother. I know this won't be printed but it is what I think. You can tell this school ignores us because the yearbook will probably only have one or two pictures of our group.

Working Artists & Craftsmen prefer an Artist' Supplier that has EVERYTHING!

MEN—WOMEN

Serving your Country has its benefits.

When you give a few years to your Country, you get a lot in return.

If you qualify, you get training in the job you choose.

You get to work in Europe, Korea, Panama, Hawaii, Alaska, or almost anywhere in the continental U.S.

You get in-service educational opportunities, as well as the G.I. Bill when your enlistment's over.

You get free medical and dental care, meals, housing, and 30 days paid vacation a year.

And most importantly, you get a chance to serve yourself as you serve your Country.

Is there life after high school?

"Congratulations," they said. "This isn't the end . . . it's just the beginning." They've said it a thousand times at a thousand graduations. While many young people just like you sat there thinking, "Where do I go from here?"

Where do you go for challenge? And opportunity?

Go Navy.

If you qualify, you'll get some of the best training available in highly skilled job fields. From missile technician to nuclear propulsion.

And you'll live a little, too. Travel. Work hard. Even swab some decks.

A good job. And a good life. The Navy: It's a good deal.

Get all the facts. Talk to your local Navy recruiter. Or call us toll-free, anytime at 913-341-4300—800-841-8000. 7919 Santa Fe Drive Overland Park, Ks. 66204

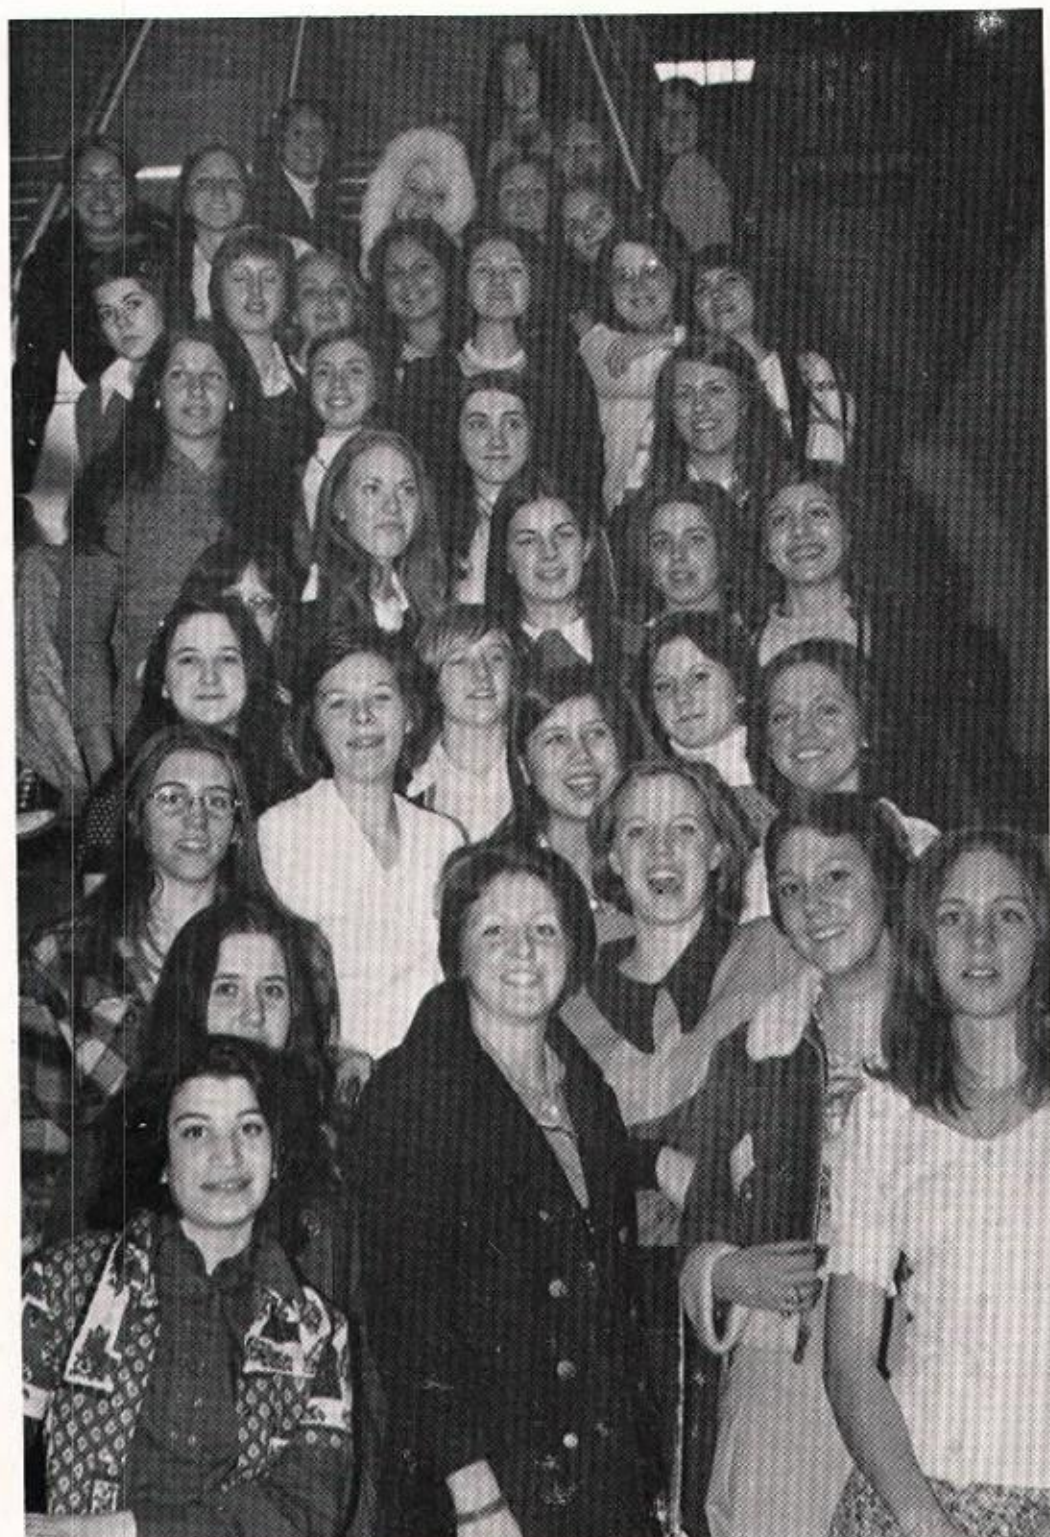

Be someone special, Join the Navy.

CAUTION:

PASS WITH CARE!

You're real sharp, Zorro. Get the point!?

We May Never Pass This Way Again

*Life-so they say
Is but a game and they let it slip away
Love-like the autumn sun
Should be dying but it's only just begun
Like the twilight in the road up ahead
They don't see just where we're going
And all the secrets in the universe
Whisper in our ears, and all the years will come and go
And take us up always up*

*We may never pass this way again
We may never pass this way again
We may never pass this way again*

*Dreams-so they say
Are for fools and they let them drift away
Peace-like a silent dove
Should be flyin' but it's only just begun
Like Columbus in the olden days
We must gather all our courage
Sail our ships out on the open sea
Cast away our fears and all the years will come and go
And take us up-always up*

*We may never pass this way again
We may never pass this way again
We may never pass this way again*

*So I wanna laugh while the laughin' is easy
I wanna cry if it makes it worthwhile
I may never pass this way again
That's why I want it with you
'Cause you make me feel like I'm more than a friend
Like I'm the journey and you're the journey's end
I may never pass this way again
That's why I want it with you baby*

*We may never pass this way again
We may never pass this way again
We may never pass this way again*

Credits: Keith Stevenson, Mike Shapiro, Mark Ariagno. The Joseph, Zumbahl, Weltsch, Haberkorn, and Lowell families donated contributions from their family albums.

The 1975 Heritage Staff would like to thank the following individuals who made this yearbook possible. The students and staff of Shawnee Mission South created these memories. Mr. Bob Gadd, Mr. Swede Tilberg, Mr. Jim Garrett, and Mrs. Anna Jones of Inter-Collegiate Press extended invaluable advice and cooperation. Mr. Than Castle of De Cloud Studios assisted with formal pictures. Thanks to Lisa Johnson. You have all made 1975 and the Heritage unique.

*But while I plan for the future,
I am enjoying what I will look back on as the best years of my life;*

*reflecting on those experiences, thoughts, and influences that have formed me
into the person I am.*

*I have tried to do
as I have been advised—to make the most of these years for I'll only be young once.*

Time does not repeat itself.

*I live for today,
as yesterday is gone forever,
and tomorrow awaits me on the horizon.*
